The Crown and Civil Bill Books of the Sessions for this County, before I came into Office, are not all forthcoming. Several of them, as well as other Records of the County, were destroyed in the Year 1794, when the Clerk of the Peace's house was burned, and also in 1779, as I have heard, by the Soldiers of a Regiment then quartered in the Court House, who had access to the Office of the Clerk of the Peace. I have commenced this Return with the January Sessions of 1800, being the earliest date of the Crown and Civil Bill Books in my possession. In every case where the Records are not to be found, the place is marked with an asterisk, instead of the number.

W. M. SPENCE,

Lifford, 18th day of May 1819.

Dep. Clerk of the Peace County of Donegal.

The Civil Bill Books, prior to the date at which this Return commences, being considered as out of date, had been kept by the late Clerk of the Peace in a damp closet; and were in such a mouldering condition, that, considering them quite useless and unintelligible, I did not take them when I received the other records of the county.

The Crown books in which the Indictments are entered, having suffered materially from damp, prior to their being given up to me, I found it impossible to commence this Return with any accuracy prior to 1806.

Observation:—The criminal and civil records of the Peace which were handed over to James Connor, Esq. the present Clerk of the Peace, at his appointment to that office in the beginning of the year 1816, were theretofore for a long period kept amongst those of the Crown Office, and given to him in a most confused state, so as to make it a matter of considerable difficulty, both as to time and labour, to make accurate searches and abstracts from them, during the period required.

Examined by THOMAS HURLY,
Acting Clerk of the Peace for the County of Kerry.

I beg leave to observe, that I cannot fully comply with the Order of the Honourable the House of Commons; they desire “The Number of Indictments, Appeals, Civil Bills, &c. from 1786 to 1819.” As to the Indictments for Louth, I have none, until April Sessions 1794, when I was appointed; my predecessor left the country, and I never got any Record previous to 1794. As to Civil Bills, there were never any cognizable at the Sessions until October 1796; from thence I give a faithful Return, as well as the Indictments from April 1794.

JOHN BOURNE,

Clerk of Peace for Louth.

The house of the Clerk of the Peace for the County of Sligo, in which he holds his office, being nearly burned to the ground in the year 1807, has prevented this Return commencing from 1786, as required; what he now sends is perfectly accurate. The Records in this particular department were thereby too much mutilated to allow him to go farther back than 1807, as set out in this Return.

Dated May 20, 1819.

J. CHRISTIAN,
Clerk of the Peace, Co. Sligo.

I humbly certify to The Honourable The House of Commons, That I have not any documents in my possession that would enable me to make the foregoing Return more complete, between the periods specified by the Honourable the House of Commons in their Address of the 6th day of April last, the Crown Books or Indictments, from 1786 to 1793, (with the exception of four sessions, the numbers of Indictments on which are herein set forth,) having never been in my possession: And I would further humbly certify, That I have not any document that would enable me to lay before the Honourable the House of Commons the Copy of a Memorial from certain Magistrates of the County of Cork, to the Lord Whitworth, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, on the insufficiency of the means of internal Judicature in that County, or of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant's Answer thereto; all which I beg leave to certify this 4th day of May 1819.

I beg leave to remark, that the records prior, and for some years subsequent to year 1798, are very defective, many of them lost or destroyed; from year 1805 they will be found correct.

II.

Copies of a MEMORIAL from certain Magistrates to the Lord Lieutenant, together with His Lordship's ANSWER; on the Insufficiency of the means of the Internal Judicature in the County of Cork.

To His Excellency CHARLES EARL WHITWORTH, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

The MEMORIAL of the Magistrates and principal Inhabitants of the South-West District of the County of Cork,

Most respectfully sheweth,

THAT the above named district labours under evils and inconveniences of a very injurious nature, in consequence of the present partial arrangement of General Sessions, and the great distance from the towns in which those sessions are held:

THAT the nearest sessions towns, viz. Bandon and Macroom, in each of which there is only one annual sessions, are situate in the baronies of Kinalmeaky and Muskerry; and that the district west of them comprises a tract of country abounding with inhabitants, containing six post towns, and several villages, and large enough to constitute no inconsiderable county in itself:

THAT were a district of this extent but thinly peopled, it would, in the opinion of Memorialists, afford no just ground for subjecting its population to the great expense and inconvenience of travelling a great number of miles for the purposes of common justice, for prosecuting breaches of the peace, and for the recovery of small debts by civil bill:

THAT an inconvenience, at all times considerable, is now much aggravated by the amount of its population which, within the last twenty or thirty years, has experienced a prodigious increase, and is daily augmenting; a circumstance eminently deserving the paternal care of a government, one of whose most important duties, and, as Memorialists are willing to believe, one of whose most pleasing occupations, is to listen to the voice of the people, to remove all grounds of well-founded complaint, and to afford them a due protection for person and property, by an easy and equal administration of justice:

THAT, the principle of bringing home justice, as far as it may be done, to every man's door, is too obvious to require enlargement, especially in an address to the superior knowledge of those who conduct affairs of state; and therefore, that Memorialists conceive it to be only necessary for them, in making this representation, to dwell upon such circumstances as their local knowledge induces them to believe may tend to elucidate the subject of this Memorial; leaving it to the wisdom of government to devise the best mode of remedying the evils complained of:

THAT Memorialists deem it expedient to state, as their opinion, that the present number of sessions is by no means adequate to the wants of this very extensive and populous county; that the Sessions Courts are thronged to a most inconvenient and inordinate degree, and that, were none to repair to them from the western parts of this district, as perhaps, comparatively speaking, not many do, they would still have business as much as, if not more than they could completely and satisfactorily perform; a consideration forming a very strong additional argument for the necessity of a new arrangement.

THAT the remoteness of this district has, among other bad consequences, urged its inhabitants to adopt irregular modes of obtaining redress of wrongs, as people, when excluded from the operation of national laws, will endeavour to supply the defect, by making private laws for themselves. On this principle, palliated, though not justified, by a seeming necessity, it has become a common practice to steal a cow or horse, and secrete it until the debt of the owner is paid; and persons who have suffered personal injury and affront, instead of resorting to the difficulties of legal compensation, think only of seizing the first convenient opportunity of inflicting manual punishment on the aggressors:

THAT Memorialists attribute much of that outrage and disorder, which have lately called forth their more active exertions, and for the suppression of which your Excellency was pleased to grant an order for disarming certain obnoxious parishes, (a measure already attended with very beneficial results) to the want of having regular and frequent sessions of the peace within this district; and that they have reason to apprehend, that no diligence on their part, will effectually establish tranquillity and good order, without those means of enforcing the laws, and bringing offenders to speedy and condign punishment, which the advantage of Sessions Courts within its precincts would, as in other places, conveniently afford.

THAT the great extent and increasing population of this county induces Memorialists to believe, that it would be very expedient to divide it, as far at least as Sessions are concerned, into two parts or ridings, with an assistant barrister in each; a measure suggested many years since, and which though not thought necessary at that time, the present circumstances of the county appear abundantly to justify:

THAT among the evils arising from the partiality of the present arrangement, may be reckoned the facility of obtaining false decrees, which is done by getting some fellow (and unfortunately they are not hard to be procured) to swear to the serving of a process on one perhaps forty miles distant, and whom he never saw; upon which, the defendant of course not appearing, an execution is granted, and an innocent person robbed under a legal warrant. This, as Memorialists conceive, could not so frequently happen in jurisdictions of smaller extent, and where the persons resorting to the Sessions Courts would be better known to each other:

THAT the privilege given to the prosecuted, of putting off their trial to the next sessions, and that even without an affidavit, is, in the opinion of Memorialists, under the present arrangement, a frequent obstruction to the ends of justice; a person indicted (for instance) for an assault committed at Bantry or Crookhaven, and bound to answer the same at Bandon or Macrump, being thus enabled to harass his prosecutor, by traversing to another sessions to be held twenty or thirty miles farther from the residence of the party; a circumstance which farther shows the expediency of amending the present plan and forming districts of more compact and convenient dimensions. Perhaps the holding of sessions in one nearly central town like an assize, would be more accommodating to the inhabitants of the county in general, than the present mode of shifting to such distances from town to town, which, convenient as it may be to some, is proportionably troublesome and distressing to others:

THAT in recommending an alteration of present modes, Memorialists beg to disclaim the slightest idea of throwing any censure on the assistant barrister of this county, a gentleman whose diligence, integrity, and impartiality, are as highly as they are justly respected; and that in transmitting this Memorial they merely undertake to represent to your Excellency, those opinions which both their general and local knowledge have enabled them on due deliberation to form:

THAT having thus respectfully submitted their Memorial, they rest with confidence in the hope of experiencing such a measure of consideration and redress as to your Excellency's wisdom and humanity, and those of the government over which your Excellency so happily presides, may seem most meet and expedient.

Copy of a LETTER from The Right Hon. ROBERT PEEL to The Right Hon.
Lord CARBERY; dated Dublin Castle, 21st December 1815.

My Lord,

Dublin Castle, 21st December 1815.

I HAVE had the honour of receiving and submitting to the Lord Lieutenant, your Lordship's letter of the 1st instant, and the Memorial by which it is accompanied.

I am to assure your Lordship, that his Excellency feels the force of the observations contained in that Memorial, and admits the weight that is due to a representation proceeding from gentlemen of so much respectability, and actuated by so laudable an anxiety for the welfare of their native county.

It would not be possible to adopt any measure for the remedy of the evils of which the Memorialists complain, without the previous sanction of the Legislature; and his Excellency is therefore disposed to advise, that the subject of the Memorial should be considered by the Grand Jury of the county, assembled at the next Spring assizes. He has the less difficulty in recommending the adoption of this suggestion, as after waiting for the report of the Grand Jury, sufficient time will be left for the introduction into Parliament, and for the passing of a Bill for the purposes recommended in the Memorial; and as the object to be effected is so much of a local nature, and requires so much local information, probably the County Members would be the best qualified to take charge of the Bill. I am not quite clear whether it would not be considered a private Bill.

A true Copy.

W. Gregory.

I have, &c.

(Signed) Robert Peel.

Right Honourable
