STATISTICS OFFICE, FOUR COURTS, DUBLIN,

14th August, 1867.

MY LORD,

I have the honour to transmit, for the information of His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant, the Judicial and Criminal Statistics of Ireland for the year 1866, being the fourth year for which the Statistics have been collected and compiled.

In addition to the Police Statistics usually collected, the special table for political offences, used in 1865, has again been collected for 1866.

Forms for recording, as each inquest is held, the necessary details, have been sent to each Coroner; and the Statistics of Inquests are more complete than in preceding years.

The Statistics of Juror Sessions are still imperfect for want of returns from some local officers.

New forms of return have been framed for the Statistics of Lunatics and Insane Persons confined as criminals in asylums, and the statistics under this head are more complete than in preceding years.

A new table has been added to those for the Landed Estates Court, to show the business in the Record of Title Office, founded by Statute 28 and 29 Vic., cap. 88.

The Returns as to the Courts of Chairmen of Counties, and from Clerks of the Peace and Sheriffs, are still incomplete; and in pursuance of your Lordship's directions, the forms of return as to these proceedings, and the causes of their incompleteness, are under special consideration, with a view to have perfect returns for the next volume.

As part of this question, the Statistics of Ejectments, of Processes served, and of Execution of Ejectments being incomplete, new forms of return have been settled, and the results, when compiled for 1866, will be furnished as a supplement to the present volume.

The Statistics of Petty Sessions, hitherto published, had the Criminal and Civil business mixed up together. In the present volume the Civil business has been separated from the Criminal, and has, with the attendance of Justices, been included in the Civil part of the volume amongst the local Courts. The Criminal business at Petty Sessions is returned in Counties and Constabulary districts by the Police, and also dealt with in Counties in the Criminal Proceedings at Assizes and Quarter Sessions, and in Commitments to Gaols and Bridewells. The compilation hitherto given of this portion of the business at Petty Sessions, from the Quarterly Returns made by the Clerks of the Petty Sessions to the Office of the Chief Secretary of the Lord Lieutenant, not being arranged on the same plan or so complete as these statistics, has been omitted.

I have the honour to be,

Your Lordship's obedient servant,

W. NEILSON HANCOCK.

The Right Hon. the EARL of MAYO, M.P.

INTRODUCTORY AND EXPLANATORY REPORT.

CONSTABULARY AND POLICE.

Constabulary and Police.

The Police Establishments in Ireland are of three kinds: the Constabulary of Ireland, the Dublin Metropolitan Police, and the Local Force in Towns.*

Of these forces, the Constabulary of Ireland extends to towns as well as to counties, and thus corresponds to the whole County Police and nearly the whole of the Borough Police Force in England and Wales, and the Police Force in her Majesty's dockyards; but is different from the County and Borough Police Force in England in being entirely under Central Government; the Dublin Metropolitan Police corresponds to the London Metropolitan Police; and the Local Force in Towns corresponds to a small number of the Borough Police Force in England and Wales, and like them is entirely under the government of Local Authorities.

Total Establishments.

The total number of the Police Force, as shown by the returns, is as follows:—

—	1866.	1865.	Increase.	Decrease.
Constabulary of Ireland.
Inspector-General and other Superior Officers,	5	5	–	–

Fire Brigade,	66	132	–	66
Total,	382	589	–	207
Grand Total,	13,355	13,327	28	–

There has been a slight increase in the effective strength of the Constabulary of Ireland in 1866 as compared with 1865, from 11,649 to 11,906, or of 257 men, arising from the substitution of the Constabulary for the Local Force in Belfast.

In the Dublin Metropolitan Police there has been a slight decrease of 22.

In the Local Force there has been a large decrease, arising chiefly from the abolition of the Local Police Force in Belfast, and the substitution of the Constabulary in consequence of the Report of the Commission which inquired into the party riots which took place in Belfast in 1864.

* Some account of the origin of these forces is given in the Judicial Statistics for Ireland, 1863.

CONSTABULARY AND POLICE.

The reduction in the number of the Fire Brigade is only apparent, the Volunteer Fire Brigade men included in preceding years, having this year been omitted in calculating the total of the police force, and from some towns no returns were received for 1866, but the number and cost for 1865 has been included, as it may, in the absence of returns, be assumed that no change has taken place.

The only town in Ireland which has any local force corresponding to the English Borough Police is Londonderry.

In instituting a comparison between the Police Forces of Ireland and of England and Wales, the Irish Constabulary and Local Force may be compared with the English Police in Counties, Boroughs, and Dockyards; and the Dublin Metropolitan Police may be compared with the London Metropolitan Police and the City of London Police added together.

The returns as to the number of the Police Force in 1866 give for all Ireland the proportion of 1 to every 418 of the estimated population in that year.

In the Dublin Metropolitan Police district the Police Force is 1,067, which, with the addition of the Local Force (42*), makes 1,109 in a population of 335,449, as returned by the Metropolitan Police Commissioners, or 1 to every 302.

The proportion of Police in 1864–65 to population in 1861 in the City of London, was 1 to 172; in the London Metropolitan District, 1 to 457; in Borough Constables, 1 to 787; in County Constabulary, 1 to 1,371; and in all England and Wales, 1 to 902.

Cost of Establishments.

The total cost of the Police Establishments in Ireland, as returned in 1866 and 1865, is as follows:—

This table indicates an increase in the cost of the Police Force of £13,230 0*s.* 8*d.*

The cost of the Police is collected under heads similar to those used in the Criminal Statistics for England and Wales, and from these the average cost per man has been calculated by the Police authorities, showing the following results as compared with the average cost in England and Wales in 1865.

The proportion in which the costs of the Constabulary and Dublin Metropolitan Police are defrayed from the general taxes is returned as follows:—

The proportion of the expenses of Police paid from local and general taxes in Ireland and in England and Wales, and the number and cost of that portion of the Irish Police which is in excess of the English proportion of Police, and the extent of relief to local taxation in Ireland in consequence of the Irish rate of payment for Police, are fully detailed in the Report of the Irish Judicial Statistics for 1865. The Fenian outbreak has shown the extent to which the Irish Constabulary serve the purposes of a standing army, so as to be naturally paid for out of the general taxes.

The number of criminal classes is shown by the fourth of the Constabulary and Police Tables, classified under the same heads as those adopted in the corresponding English Returns. In consequence of the difference in the Poor Law, and in the law as to Industrial Schools in the two countries, the vagrants and tramps are kept distinct from the other criminal classes in the following table of comparison.

The preceding table exhibits a decrease in the criminal classes as compared with 1865. The decrease in vagrants and tramps is very satisfactory, as the numbers of this class had been increasing for several years.

The following table shows the total number of criminal classes in Ireland for the year 1866, compared with the corresponding classes in England and Wales for 1865.

The period at which the number of vagrants and tramps for 1865 was estimated in England and Wales, was changed from the month of September to the month of April, but the change does not affect the comparison between the numbers of the other criminal classes in England and Wales with those in Ireland.*

* Nor does it materially affect the comparison as to vagrants and tramps, as there was an increase shown in the numbers in England and Wales after the change was adopted.

16 years and above,	8,351	27,253	7,172	1,179	–

This table exhibits the very satisfactory result that although the number of police in Ireland is so much greater than in a corresponding portion of the population in England and Wales, the number of criminal classes, other than vagrants and tramps, known to the police is less than one-half, being 10,118 as compared with 21,826 in a corresponding portion of the population in England and Wales in 1865.

With regard to vagrants and tramps under 16 years of age the proportion is reversed, the number in Ireland being 3,227, or nearly double 1,694, the number in a corresponding portion of the population in England and Wales in 1865. In connexion with this subject the total absence of Industrial Schools in Ireland should be borne in mind, whilst there were in certified Industrial Schools in England and Wales at the end of the year 1865, no less than 1,610, which gives 424 for a portion of the population of England and Wales equal to that of Ireland.

During the Session of 1866, the law as to Industrial Schools was consolidated for England and Wales by statute 29 & 30 Vic., c. 118; but this valuable code of laws, commencing in the year 1854 by statute 17 & 18 Vic., c. 86, and amended by successive enactments suggested by the experience of 11 years, has not yet been extended to Ireland. The greater number of juvenile delinquents, which I have had to notice for four years, would appear to indicate the necessity of this extension to Ireland. The actual number in Industrial Schools in England and Wales does not account for the whole excess of juvenile delinquents, for if 424, the proportion already referred to, be deducted from 1,533, it still leaves 1,109 to be accounted for. The more favourable state of affairs in this respect in England and Wales is partly to be ascribed to the indirect effect of the Industrial Schools Acts (in operation for 11 years) in reducing the number of juvenile delinquents not actually in the schools. The rest of the excess in this class must arise to a large extent from the same causes that produce the excess in Ireland of vagrants and tramps above 16 years of age. As one of these causes, it is impossible to overlook the very marked difference in the laws which regulate the relief of the poor in Ireland and in England and Wales. The Irish law being much more stringent than the English law with regard to women and children, the effect is shown by the relative numbers relieved in Ireland and in England and Wales.

The excess of vagrants and tramps of all ages in Ireland, amounting to 2,712, is very small when the difference between the proportion of the poor in receipt of Poor Law Relief in Ireland and in England and Wales is taken into consideration. The average daily number in receipt of relief in 1866–67, was 50,241 in Workhouses, and 12,205 out-door, or 62,446 in all, being 188,053 less than the number (250,499), in receipt of relief in 1865 in a portion of the population of England and Wales equal to that of Ireland.*

Criminal classes.

The houses of bad character, as ascertained by the police, in 1866 and 1865 are compared in the following table :—

Houses of bad character.

Houses of Bad Character.	1866.	1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.
Houses of receivers of stolen goods,	870	981	–	111
Houses, the resort of thieves and prostitutes,	1,026	1,221	–	195
Brothels and houses of ill-fame,	593	569	24	–
Total (except Tramps' lodging-houses),	2,489	2,771	–	282
Tramps' lodging-houses,	3,552	3,778	–	226

This table exhibits a progressive decrease in the number of houses of bad character, of every class. The large decrease (226) in the number of tramps' lodging-houses during 1866 is the more satisfactory, as there had been in the previous year as compared with the number for 1864, an increase of 151 (from 3,627 in 1864 to 3,778 in 1865). These variations, it will be observed, are closely connected with the variations in the number of vagrants and tramps, which, as shown in a preceding table (page 9), had decreased by 581 during 1866, while in 1865 (during which the increase in the number of tramps' lodging-houses had taken place), there was an increase of 1,203.

The following table gives a comparison of the number of houses of bad character in Ireland in 1866, with those in England and Wales in 1865 :—

Houses of bad character compared with those in England and Wales.

Houses of Bad Character compared with those in England and Wales.	Ireland, 1866.	England and Wales, 1865. Brothels and houses of ill-fame,	593	6,949	1,829	–	1,236
Total (except Tramps' lodging-houses),	2,489	15,145	3,986	–	1,497
Tramps' lodging-houses,	3,552	5,544	1,459	2,093	–

In this table the houses of bad character (except tramps' lodging-houses) in Ireland appear to be much fewer than in England and Wales, the houses of ill-fame and brothels being 593 as compared with 1,829 in a corresponding portion of the population in England and Wales in 1865. The excess in tramps' lodging-houses is connected with the increase already noticed with respect to vagrants and tramps.

The following summary gives a comparison of the proportions of the criminal classes to population on the same plan as that adopted in the statistics for 1865 :—

	Criminal Classes (including Prostitutes).	Prostitutes separately.
Dublin Metropolitan Police district,	2,683 or 1 in 125	1,206 or 1 in 278
Counties of Antrim (including towns of Belfast and Carrickfergus), Armagh, Down (linen trade and agriculture),	2,199 or 1 in 395	691 or 1 in 1,256
Provinces of Munster and Connaught (agriculture),	8,836 or 1 in 272	753 or 1 in 3,194
Ireland,	21,696 or 1 in 266	3,157 or 1 in 1,829

* The mean estimated number of paupers of all classes (including children) at one time in receipt of relief in England and Wales in 1865 was 951,899, viz.:—131,313 in-door, and 820,586 out-door. The workhouse relief in Ireland is 14,751 above the number in the corresponding portion of the population in England and Wales in 1864, and the out-door is 118,475 less.

CONSTABULARY AND POLICE.

That we may judge whether these proportions are satisfactory or not, I add the corresponding proportions for England and Wales for 1865 :—

	Criminal Classes (including Prostitutes).	Prostitutes separately.
The Metropolis,	1 in 188	1 in 544
Pleasure towns,	1 in 81	1 in 243
Commercial ports,	1 in 109	1 in 193

Midland counties,	1 in 157	1 in 2,197
All England and Wales,	1 in 172	1 in 728

Total criminal classes.

As in order to ascertain the entire number of the criminal classes at any given time, it is necessary to add to those at large the number of those in confinement, the following tables are inserted exhibiting an estimate of the Irish criminal classes in 1866, as compared with 1865, and with the corresponding number in the English statistics for 1865 :—

CRIMINAL CLASSES IN 1866, COMPARED WITH THOSE IN 1865.	1866.	1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.
Criminal Classes at large, including 11,578 tramps and vagrants,	21,696	23,603	–	1,907

In Convict Prisons,	1,432	1,637	–	205
In Reformatories,	632	628	4	–
Total,	26,103	28,534	–	2,431

* TOTAL CRIMINAL CLASSES IN 1866, COMPARED WITH THOSE IN ENGLAND AND WALES, IN 1865.	IRELAND, 1866. Total.	ENGLAND AND WALES, 1865. Total.	ENGLAND AND WALES, 1865. Number in a portion of the Population of England and Wales equal to that of Ireland.	Irish Criminal Classes in 1866 in excess of those in equal Population in England and Wales in 1865.	Irish Criminal Classes in 1866 less than those in an equal Population in England and Wales in 1865.
Criminal Classes at large, including 11,578 tramps and vagrants,	21,696	116,749	30,723	–	9,027
In Local Prisons,	2,343	17,346	4,565	–	2,222
In Convict Prisons,	1,432	7,558	1,989	–	557
In Reformatories,	632	3,388	892	–	260

It appears from this table that the total number (26,103) of the criminal classes in Ireland, including those at large as well as those in prison, is less numerous by 12,066, or 31 per cent., than the number (38,169) of the corresponding classes in 1865, in a portion of the population of England and Wales equal to that of Ireland.

Indictable offences (not disposed of summarily).

The number of crimes returned by the Police, and the number of persons apprehended in Ireland were as follow :—

INDICTABLE OFFENCES NOT DISPOSED OF SUMMARILY.	Crimes Returned.	Persons Apprehended.
January, February, and March,	2,451	1,788
April, May, and June,	2,094	1,429
July, August, and September,	2,117	1,444
October, November, and December,	2,420	1,591

* In this table the number in Bridewells in Ireland is not included: the number, however, is small, and is more than counterbalanced by the omission of the numbers in Industrial Schools in England and Wales, and the number of military prisoners and debtors in the local prisons in England and Wales.

Indictable offences (not disposed of summarily).

The apprehensions were in the proportion of 68·8 per cent. to the number of crimes returned. In England and Wales in 1865 the apprehensions were in the proportion of 55·6 per cent. to the number of crimes returned. It is stated in the English statistics that the only higher proportion of apprehensions ever attained was 58·2 per cent. of the number of crimes committed (in the year 1863). It is to be observed that the number of apprehensions in Ireland is in a much higher proportion than this.

The statistics of crimes and apprehensions are compared with the corresponding statistics of England and Wales for 1865 in the following tables :—

Indictable Offences in 1866 (not disposed of summarily) compared with those in England and Wales in 1865.	Ireland, 1866. Total.	England and Wales, 1865. Total.	England and Wales, 1865. Total,	6,252	29,049	7,644	–	1,392

The maximum of crime in Ireland which, as indicated by the statistics, has hitherto been in the months of July, August, and September, was attained this year in January, February, and March—a change to be attributed to the outbreak of Fenianism, which took place in March. In England and Wales the maximum is in October, November, and December.

The indictable offences returned by the Police for 1866 and 1865 are compared in the following table :—

Whilst the above table shows a general decrease from 9,766 to 9,082, there appears to be an increase in the number of murders, but the Police statistics as to murder, do not agree with the Coroners' statistics as noticed in the next page.

As the heads of the annual Police returns were not framed to include treason and the other offences connected with it, special forms were sent to the Police.

The following is a summary of the special returns received :—

TREASONABLE AND SEDITIOUS OFFENCES IN 1866 RETURNED UNDER THE FOLLOWING HEADS IN THE PRECEDING TABLE.	High Treason.	Treasonable Felony.	Sedition and having Seditious Papers. It appears from this summary that the treasonable and seditious offences arising out of the Fenian conspiracy were the chief unfavourable features in the Police statistics of indictable offences in Ireland in 1866.

The following summary gives the number of indictable offences not disposed of summarily, returned in Ireland for 1866, as compared with the number in England and Wales in 1865 :—

Indictable offences (not disposed of summarily).

The characteristics of Irish crime indicated by this summary correspond with those observed last year, the most unfavourable features being malicious offences against property, riots, assaults inflicting bodily harm, and other assaults.

Of offences against property there is a much smaller number than in a corresponding portion of the population in England and Wales. This arises in part, no doubt, from the much larger quantity of property to tempt thieves in England and Wales, and the much smaller proportion of police to population, there being only one-half the number of policemen to the same number of the population in England that there is in Ireland.

As regards the offences of attempts to murder, shooting at, wounding, stabbing, &c., to do bodily harm, and manslaughter, the Irish statistics are more favourable than the English, and also the statistics of unnatural offences, rape and immoral offences, perjury, and attempts to commit suicide.

The Police statistics as to murder show 66 in Ireland, as compared with 36 in a corresponding portion of the population in England and Wales in 1865; but the Coroners' statistics, which as to the number of crimes affecting life appear to be more reliable than those returned by the Police, show 64 verdicts of wilful murder in Ireland, and 231 in England and Wales outside Middlesex, besides 94 verdicts of wilful murder of children under one year of age, and 77 cases of murder of persons above that age, in Middlesex alone, or 402 in all. This gives 106 as the number of murders in a portion of the population in England and Wales equal to that of Ireland, which is a very much larger proportion than in Ireland.

The following summary gives the number of infanticides and other murders in Ireland, according to the Coroners' Returns, as compared with the corresponding statistics in England and Wales. It appears from this summary that there is an excess both of infanticides and of other murders in England and Wales, there having been 46 verdicts of infanticide in an equal portion of the population in England and Wales in 1865, for 40 in Ireland, and 60 verdicts for other murders as compared with 24 in Ireland.

MURDER, ACCORDING TO CORONERS' RETURNS.	IRELAND, 1866.	ENGLAND AND WALES, 1865.		Murders in Ireland in 1866 in excess of those in equal population in England and Wales in 1865.	Murders in Ireland in 1866 less than those in equal population in England and Wales in 1865.
		Total.	Number in a portion of the population of England and Wales equal to that of Ireland.
Murder of children under the age of 1 year, .	40	175	46	–	6
Murder of persons above the age of 1 year, .	24	227	60	–	36
Total Murders, ...	64	402	106	–	42

The Census Commissioners ascertained that the number of children under one year of age in Ireland to the rest of the population was, in 1861, as 2·4 to 97·6, or in other words, that in every 200 of the population, about 5 are infants under one year of age. It follows from this that the number of murders of infants under one year of age which would correspond to the 24 murders appearing to have taken place by the Coroners' Returns amongst the rest of the population, would be less than one a year; being only ·59, or about 3 in five years. The number of infanticides (40) is therefore more than 67 times the number of murders occurring amongst the same amount of the population at other periods of life on an average.

In England and Wales the proportion of those under one year to those above one year of age is 3 to 97; it follows, therefore, that the number of infanticides which would correspond to the 227 murders of persons above one year of age would be 7 in one year. The actual number (175) would appear to be on an average about 25 times the number occurring amongst the same amount of population in England and Wales at other periods of life.

Indictable offences (not disposed of summarily).

The amount of infanticide indicated by the verdicts of Coroners' juries in both countries is very startling, and resting as they do upon the sworn verdicts of a number of independent juries before different Coroners in all parts of both countries, the statistics are free from any prejudice which might lead to a wrong estimate or statement of the excess of infanticide which they indicate.

Offences determined summarily.

The offences determined summarily in 1866 and 1865 are compared in the following table :—

Total offences determined summarily,	236,835	233,879	2,956	–

The offences (included in the preceding summary) to be attributed to the Fenian conspiracy are indicated in the following table. There was a considerable increase in the number of offences under these heads as compared with the number in 1865, especially in the offence of using seditious language :—

TREASONABLE AND SEDITIOUS OFFENCES IN 1866 RETURNED UNDER THE FOLLOWING HEADS IN PRECEDING TABLE.	High Treason.	Treasonable Felony.	Sedition.	Attempts, and Administering Treasonable Oaths.	Using Seditious Language.	Defacing Proclamations.	Total.

Total,	–	13	3	–	96	7	119

In the offences which might be indicted there was an increase of 602, which, however, does not bring the number up to that returned for 1864, as there had been a decrease of 1,314 in this class of offences in the year 1865. In the offences not indictable there appears also to have been, during 1866, an increase of 2,354.

Offences determined summarily.

The following table gives a comparison of the offences determined summarily in Ireland in 1866, with those in England and Wales in 1865 :—

Total offences determined summarily,	236,835	120,766	116,069	–

The first four classes in the preceding table are the only classes therein that are certain to include offences which might be made the subject of indictment, and it appears that these minor cases of Indictable Offences (determined summarily) indicate the same characteristics as the table of graver cases (not determined summarily)—the number of such offences is 21,859, being 2,784 less than the number (24,643) in an equal portion of the population in England and Wales in 1865; there is also less of theft, and of crimes indicating a low moral tone, such as aggravated assaults on women and children, than in England and Wales; on the other hand there is a greater prevalence of malicious offences in Ireland.

In the less serious offences the chief excess is under the following heads—drunkenness, offences against Ways Acts, Pawnbrokers' Act, Revenue Laws, Vagrant Acts, and common assaults. Thus if the excess in offences not classed (8,505) be deducted from the entire excess (118,853), the difference (110,348) is more than accounted for by the excess of offences under the four following heads, viz. :—

Drunkenness,	54,481
Offences against Acts of Parliament, such as Ways Acts, Pawnbrokers' Act, Revenue Laws, &c.,	48,828
Offences against Vagrant Acts,	2,391
Common Assaults,	10,340
Total,	116,040

With respect to offences against the above Acts of Parliament, the fact that the Irish Police act as Inspectors of weights and measures, and as a Revenue Police, would naturally lead to greater vigilance in enforcing these Acts, and the much larger proportion of police to population in Ireland than in England and Wales would also lead to greater activity in the detection and punishment of minor offences, especially as the Justices have power to award one-third of the pecuniary penalties (the usual punishment for such offences), to the Constabulary reward fund.

This inevitable effect of the large proportion of Police in Ireland is illustrated by the statistics as to Prostitutes. Thus, while it appears from the Police Tables that the number of Prostitutes known to the Police in Ireland in 1866 was 3,157, as compared with 7,249 in an equal portion of the population in England and Wales in 1865, there were 4,242 charges against Prostitutes under the Vagrant Acts in Ireland in 1866, as compared with 1,851 in an equal portion of the population in England and Wales in 1865.

The number of offences against the Poor Law Acts in Ireland in 1866 for deserting families and disorderly conduct in Workhouses is only 693, as compared with 2,064 in a corresponding portion of the population in England and Wales in 1865.

Result of proceedings.

The following summary exhibits the result of the proceedings in cases determined summarily :—

	Men and Boys.	Women and Girls.	Total.
Total number proceeded against, . . .	192,364	44,471	236,835
„ convicted, ...	158,999	33,131	192,130

Thus it appears that in the case of offences determined summarily, the convictions were 81 per cent. of the persons proceeded against. This is a higher proportion of convictions than in England and Wales in 1865 where the per-centage of convictions is 68·2 of the number of persons proceeded against.

Punishments.

The penalties imposed on those convicted are stated under the same classification as in the English statistics, and the proportions of the different punishments are compared with the corresponding proportions in England and Wales in the following summary :—

Punishments for Offences determined Summarily in 1866, compared with those in England and Wales in 1865.	Number of Cases.	Proportion per cent. Ireland, 1866.	Corresponding proportion per cent. for England and Wales, 1865.

Other Punishments, ...	16,669	8·68	8·99
Total convicted, . . .	192,130	100·	100·

It appears from this summary that the punishments of a trifling character bear a higher proportion in Ireland to the total punishments than in England and Wales, whilst the proportional number of serious punishments is much less in Ireland, indicating that a large part of the excess in the case of offences determined summarily in Ireland is to be found amongst the offences of a less serious character.

The character of the persons proceeded against is compared with the corresponding English statistics in the following summary :—

Character of Persons Proceeded Against compared with similar Statistics for England and Wales.	Ireland, 1866.	England and Wales, 1865.		Excess of Persons proceeded against in Ireland in 1866 as compared with England and Wales in 1865.	Deficiency of Persons proceeded against in Ireland in 1866 as compared with England and Wales in 1865.

Total of Ireland,	243,087	487,973	128,414	114,673	–

It appears from this summary that 16·1 per cent. of the persons proceeded against were of character unknown to the police, whilst in England and Wales 34 per cent. of those proceeded against were of that class. This arises in part from the much higher number of police in proportion to the population in Ireland than in England and Wales, already noticed, and in part from the greater number of foreigners, and from the greater aggregation of the people in cities and towns in England than in Ireland.

In Ireland 67·7 per cent. of those proceeded against were of previous good character, while in England and Wales only 38 per cent. were of this class. It appears that while the total excess of persons proceeded against in Ireland over those proceeded against in an equal population in England and Wales was 114,673, the excess of persons of previous good character proceeded against was 115,640. These figures afford further indications of the less serious character of a large part of the offences disposed of summarily in Ireland.

Coroners' Returns.

The returns which have been obtained from the Coroners show the number of inquests to have been 3,092—2,099 on men and boys, and 993 on women and girls. In England and Wales, in 1865, the number was 25,011—17,566 on men and boys, and 7,445 on women and girls. This would give the proportion to be expected in Ireland as 6,582, showing that the inquests in Ireland are less than one-half the number held in an equal population in England and Wales.

It appears that of the 64 verdicts of murder returned by Coroners 40 were of children under the age of one year, and 24 were other murders, showing a great excess of infanticide as already noticed in connexion with the Police statistics as to murder.*

The returns show the cost of the inquests to be £6,783 6*s.* 11*d.*, and the average cost of each inquest to be £2 3*s.* 10*d.*, whilst in England and Wales it is £2 19*s.* 10*d.*

CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS.

Cost of Criminal Prosecutions.

An account of the sums paid by Her Majesty's Treasury for criminal prosecutions at Assizes and Quarter Sessions, and at the Dublin Commission Court, and proceedings at Petty Sessions, Inquests, and Police Courts, has been made up from returns received from the Crown Solicitors in Ireland, and from the County and City Treasurers. The Crown Solicitors' returns show the number of prosecutions conducted by the Crown Counsel and Crown Solicitors' at Assizes and at the Dublin Commission Court, and the costs, exclusive of prosecutors and witnesses' expenses which are paid through the County and City Treasurers. The latter expense and the number of prosecutors and witnesses paid have been ascertained from the County and City Treasurers, but these payments are not confined to prosecutions in which the Crown Counsel and Solicitors are engaged.

The following table gives a summary of the costs of criminal prosecutions in Ireland, with the number of Crown prosecutions in County and City of Dublin, and Crown prosecutions on Circuit, and in 26 of the 39 Quarter Sessions Courts :—

This table shows an increase (attributable to the prosecutions for Fenianism) in the number and costs of Crown prosecutions in Dublin, and in the number of Crown prosecutions at the Assizes throughout the country, but a considerable decrease in the number of cases in the Quarter Sessions Courts.

The criminal prosecutions in Ireland are managed differently from those in England and Wales. The Executive Goverment, by the Law Officers and Crown Solicitors, takes charge of all the serious cases at Assizes in Ireland and at the Dublin Commission Court. In England and Wales the Treasury Solicitor in 1865 prosecuted in 310 Mint cases, and in 94 other cases; while the prosecutions at the Circuit Assize Courts, in 1865, were 2,968, and at the Central Criminal Court, 698. At the Quarter Sessions in Ireland a Sessional Crown Solicitor attends, but Barristers are scarcely ever employed. From these differences the expenses of Crown prosecutions in Ireland should be higher at Assizes than in England and Wales, and less at Quarter Sessions.

As the English Returns appear to include the cases in which witnesses were paid as well as those in which professional assistance was employed, the average costs founded upon such numbers will not compare with the average cost in Ireland, calculated on the cases in which the Crown Solicitor intervenes, and therefore no comparison of average cost is given.

The tables of Criminal Proceedings at Assizes, at the Dublin Commission Court, and at Quarter Sessions, have been compiled so as to give in a condensed form information similar to that contained in the "Irish Criminal Tables,"* which were annually presented to Parliament for many years previous to the compilation of the Irish Judicial and Criminal Statistics for 1863.

* The origin of the Irish Criminal Tables is explained in the Irish Judicial Statistics for 1863, p. xix.

The forms of return used for the Irish Criminal Tables have been preserved, so as to allow of an accurate comparison with the statistics of this class of criminal proceedings in Ireland for past years, and by this means the defect is obviated to which the Irish Judicial Statistics, from being only compiled for three years, would otherwise be subject.

In this comparison it was necessary to mark the large addition to the number of the offences treated as distinct, inserted by the advice of the Law Adviser to the Irish Government in the Tables of 1862, after the Consolidated Criminal Statutes had come into operation. This has been done on Table 4, and the figures before and after the new classification of offences are distinguished by a broad line. The change, however, does not affect the total number of offences of all classes.

The number of persons for trial at Assizes, the Dublin Commission Court, and at Quarter Sessions, is compared with the numbers in the preceding ten years in the following summary:—

—	No. of Persons for Trial.	Actual Increase.	Actual Decrease.	No. per 100,000 of Population. *	Increase per 100,000.	Decrease per 100,000.
1857, .	7,210	–	–	122	–	–

1866, .	4,326	–	331	77	–	5
Decrease in 10 years,		2,884			45

The decrease during 1866 in the number of persons sent for trial, as compared with the year immediately preceding, of 331, or upwards of 7 per cent., is highly satisfactory, following as it does upon progressive decreases since 1857 (except in the exceptional years of distress, 1861 and 1862), so that 1866 presents a smaller number of persons for trial than any year of the last ten, and shows a reduction of 2,884 (from 7,210 in 1857 to 4,326 in 1866) being a decrease of 40 per cent. As, however, in order to form a correct estimate of the amount of crime, it is necessary to take into account the number of the population, I have added four columns to the above table showing the number of persons for trial in every 100,000 of the people. A very remarkable decrease in the amount of crime during the last ten years is thus indicated, there having been, in 1857, 122 persons for trial in every 100,000 of the population, while in 1866 this number had been reduced to 77, being a decrease of 45 per 100,000 of population, or 37 per cent.

Classes of Offences compared with 1865.

The differences in the classes of offences of which those for trial in 1866 and 1865 were convicted or charged are indicated by the following summary:—

CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS.

Assizes, Quarter Sessions, &c.—continued.

The chief unfavourable feature in this summary is the increase in the number of offences not included in any of the specified classes from 926 cases in 1865 to 1,041 in 1866, being an increase of 12·4 per cent. The other unfavourable features are slight increases of less than one-half per cent. in the number of offences against property with violence and of cases of Treasonable Felony.

The favourable symptoms are decreases of 15·5 per cent. in offences against the person; of 24·4 per cent. in malicious offences against property; of 22·2 per cent. in offences against the currency; and of 7 per cent. in all the offences grouped together.

In connexion with the efforts to extend manufactures in Ireland, the statistics afford very satisfactory results. There was not a single person for trial for destroying machines or goods in process of manufacture in 1866. There were, however, 6 persons for trial for riot and feloniously demolishing buildings, machinery, &c., which is an increase on the number (1) in 1865. For offences connected with conspiracies or combinations to raise the rate of wages, there were three persons for trial in 1866, which were the only cases of the kind which have occurred for the last four years. These statistics are, however, upon the whole highly creditable to the tradesmen and labouring classes engaged in manufactures.

Result of Proceedings.

The following are the results of the proceedings at Assizes, the Dublin Commission Court, and Quarter Sessions, in each of the two years :—

The proportion of those acquitted and discharged in 1866 to those placed on trial (44·10 per cent.) is still at a much higher rate than in England and Wales, where the proportion of the acquitted and discharged in 1865 amounted to but 24·6 per cent.

Capital convictions.

Of the 4 persons sentenced to death in 1866, in 2 cases the sentence was commuted to penal servitude, and the following 2 persons were executed :—

Patrick Power, aged 20, murder of his father, for interfering with his wild courses, and attempting to prevent him making an unsuitable marriage.

John Loyne, aged 23, murder of a boy 10 years old, the son of a small farmer. The child's father had prosecuted Loyne for dishonesty while in his employment as farm servant, for which crime he was sentenced to penal servitude. On the expiration of the sentence he went to the farmer's house to shoot him, but the son accidentally received the shot fired at the father.

In addition to the information similar to that given in the English Tables of Criminal Proceedings, the Irish Criminal Tables contain details as to the ages and state of instruction of the persons for trial.

Sexes and state of instruction on commitment.

The sexes of those for trial for 1865 and 1866, and the state of instruction of those committed of each sex, are given in the following summary :—

It appears from this summary that while the proportion of men and boys who were ascertained to be incapable on their commitment of either reading or writing was 25·57 per cent., the proportion of women and girls in this state of ignorance was 49·13 per cent., the former of which is a decrease, the latter an increase on the per centage for 1865.

The number of persons for trial being less than in 1865, it is of importance to trace whether this diminution was general or local. For this purpose the following summary has been compiled.

Number for trial in the different counties, &c., compared with those in 1865.

CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS.

Quarter Sessions.

It appears that the improvement in 1866, as shown by the smaller number of persons for trial, extended to 18 counties and 1 Riding out of the 32 counties, to 5 counties of cities or of towns, and to 3 provinces.

The Court of Quarter Sessions in Ireland is in one respect differently constituted from the Court of Quarter Sessions in England, being presided over by the Chairman of the County, or Irish County Court Judge. A table has been introduced showing the appeals from Magistrates, which are given in another form in the English statistics; the applications for spirit licences and the disposal of bills of indictment are also shown, so as to give a complete view of the entire business at Quarter Sessions.

The proceedings at Quarter Sessions as compared with those in 1865, were as follow:—

PROCEEDINGS AT QUARTER SESSIONS.	1866.	1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.
Appeals from Magistrates:—

It appears from this summary that there was a considerable decrease in the business at Quarter Sessions in 1866.

The Court for the consideration of Crown cases reserved, constituted by Stat. 11 and 12 Vic., c. 78, corresponds to the Court of Criminal Appeal in England. There were 10 appeals before it in 1866.

The proceedings at Jurors' Sessions for revising the Jurors' Lists have been returned for all the counties of cities and of towns, and for 25 out of the 32 counties of Ireland; the returns wanting being those for the counties of Dublin, Meath, Louth, Queen's County, Cavan, Down, and Sligo.

* This Court corresponds to the Central Criminal Court in England, and has jurisdiction in the county and county of the city of Dublin.

The different districts present great diversity as to the number of qualified Jurors in proportion to population—from 1 in 56 of the population in Carlow to 1 in 250 in Roscommon. This arises in part from the greater or less extent to which the leasehold tenure, upon which the qualification mainly depends, has been replaced in different districts by a yearly tenancy, which is not, except in towns, a qualification for a Juror. It also arises in part from the extent to which the statutable provisions as to qualifications are disregarded.

The statutable qualifications for Jurors for counties at large are—

In Rural Districts, ... { Freeholders. Leaseholders.

In Towns, ... { Resident Merchants. Freemen. Householders.

It appears, however, that in no less than 27 districts out of 73 from which returns have been received, persons are returned as Jurors with other than the statutable qualification.

Prisons.

PRISONS.

Under the head of Prisons are included the statistics of bridewells and of gaols in counties, and counties of cities or of towns, convict prisons, and reformatories, as also the statistics of criminal lunatics confined in goals and lunatic asylums. The prisoners in the Four Courts Marshalsea* at Dublin have not been included, the numbers in it not having been hitherto included in the General Tables of the Inspectors-General of Prisons.

The gaols included in these tables are 39 in number. They are not divided into county, borough, and liberty prisons as in England and Wales. The towns in Ireland that have distinct taxation for gaols are those which are counties of cities or counties of towns being only 8 out of the 33 boroughs in Ireland; of these 8 towns with distinct taxation only 5 have actually distinct gaols, there being only 1 gaol for the county and city of

* The Inspectors-General of Prisons, though not including the Four Courts Marshalsea in their General Report add in an Appendix a special Report on this institution, from which it appears that there were 32 prisoners in custody on the 31st December, 1865, the maximum at any time in the year having been 50, and that the total commitments in the year were 280.

Kilkenny, 1 for the county and city of Waterford, and 1 for the county of Antrim and the county of the town of Carrickfergus. PRISONS.

The table as to bridewells is compiled in the office of the Inspector-General of Prisons from the returns made to that department, and when compared with that for 1865 it gives the following result:— Bridewells.

BRIDEWELLS.	Men and Boys.	Women and Girls.	Total, 1866.	Total, 1865.	Increase.	Decrease.
Number of Commitments, . . .	13,931	4,516	18,447	20,556	–	2,109

Total Cost, ...	. .	. .	£ s. d. 6,365 18 9	£ s. d. 6,417 0 8¾	–	£ s. d. 51 1 11¾

This summary shows a decrease in the number of commitments for drunkenness from 10,650 in 1865 to 9,782 in 1866. The returns for 1865 showed a serious increase in the number of commitments for this offence as compared with the returns for 1864 and 1863. This increase was remarkable as it took place notwithstanding the passing of the "Beer-houses (Ireland) Act, 1864," Stat. 27 & 28 Vic., c. 35. The number, however, for 1866 has been reduced to a figure very little exceeding that for 1864.

The number of commitments to county gaols, inclusive of debtors, or commitments on civil process, was as follows:— Gaols for Counties, &c. Commitments.

	1866.	1865.	Decrease in 1866.
Men and Boys, ...	17,596	19,147	1,551
Women and Girls, . . .	11,832	13,710	1,878
Total, . . .	29,428	32,857	3,429

The number of commitments to gaols in Ireland during 1866, classified according to sexes and the nature of convictions, with the proportion per cent. of each, as compared with the corresponding proportion per cent. in England and Wales in 1865, is shown in the following summary:—

COMMITMENTS.	Men and Boys.	Women and Girls.	Total of both Sexes.	Proportion per cent.
				Men and Boys.		Women and Girls.
				Ireland, 1866.	England and Wales, 1865.	Ireland, 1866.	England and Wales, 1865.

It appears from this summary that the proportion of persons convicted at Assizes and Quarter Sessions, of debtors and of military and naval prisoners, is greater in England and Wales than in Ireland, whilst the proportion of those summarily convicted, and those unconvicted, is greater in Ireland than in England and Wales.

The number and proportion of previous commitments in 1866 is given in the following summary with the English proportion in 1865, for comparison :—

Total,	5,582	7,710	13,292	100·	100·	100·	100·

The much larger number of men and boys than women and girls committed, verifies the well-known social law that women are in general less criminal than men, whilst the fact that recommitments of women are much more frequent than in the case of men is in strict accordance with another social law, that when women once enter into the paths of crime they become more criminal than men.*

The following summary shows the ages and sexes of persons (except debtors and persons charged with military and naval offences) committed to the different county and county of city or of town gaols in 1866.

Ages.

The proportion of each sex at the different ages in the prisons in England and Wales in 1865 is added for comparison.

AGES.	Men and Boys.	Women and Girls.	Total of both Sexes.	Proportion per cent.
				Men and Boys.		Women and Girls.

It appears from this summary that the same general social law as to the ages of prisoners in county gaols prevails in Ireland as in England and Wales. There are however variations, especially as to the striking excess in Ireland in the number of prisoners of both sexes between 21 and 30 years of age, as compared with the number in the other classes—a circumstance which suggests an inquiry into the causes of the difference. The figures in the above table show a total decrease as compared with the figures for last year in the number of those confined in prison of 3,171, there being a decrease of 1,296 males and 1,875 females.

* The extent to which depraved women are recommitted is shown by the Inspectors-General of Prisons in their Report for 1866. It appears from that Report, p. xiv., that of the 263 persons committed between 20 and 30 times, 214 were females; of the 125 committed between 30 and 50 times, 107 were females; and that of the 36 committed more than 50 times, 35 were females, one woman having been committed so often as 226 times; and of the total number who had undergone more than 20 commitments, 489 were women and but 83 were men.

The following summary shows the birthplace of the persons (other than debtors, and persons charged with military and naval offences) committed to the different county and county of city or of town gaols in Ireland in 1866.

The proportion of persons born in the same countries in the county prisons in England and Wales in 1865 is given for comparison.

Birthplace.	Men and Boys.	Women and Girls.	Total of both Sexes.	Proportion per cent.
				Men and Boys.		Women and Girls.
				Ireland, 1866.	England and Wales, 1865.	Ireland, 1866.	England and Wales, 1865.
Ireland,	16,149	11,681	27,830	96·7	12·3	99·1	21·9

Total,	16,693	11,787	28,480	100·	100·	100·	100·

It appears from this summary that there were less than one per cent. of women and girls, and less than four per cent. of men and boys not of Irish birth in Irish gaols, whilst in England and Wales in 1865 there were 16 per cent. of men and boys and 26 per cent. of women and girls in English prisons not born in England and Wales, and of these strangers no less than 12 per cent. of the men and boys and 21 per cent. of the women and girls were of Irish birth.

There is a very small number of persons of Scotch birth in the English prisons, but it is remarkable that the number of women and girls, 2·8 per cent., is nearly double 1·8 per cent. the number of men and boys, just as is the case of Irish emigrants.

It is probable that in both cases this difference arises from the migration of women of bad character from the poorer to the wealthier parts of the kingdom.

Degree of instruction of prisoners.

The following summary gives the degree of instruction of the same class of prisoners in gaols, as those already referred to, in Ireland in 1866, with the English proportion for 1865 for comparison :—

Degree of Instruction.	Men and Boys.	Women and Girls.	Total of both Sexes.	Proportion per cent.
				Men and Boys.		Women and Girls.
				Ireland, 1866.	England and Wales, 1865.	Ireland, 1866.	England and Wales, 1865.
Neither read nor write,	6,128	6,033	12,161	36·7	34·9	51·2	37·6
Read, or read and write imperfectly,	4,034	3,672	7,706	24·2	60·4	31·1	59·8
Read and write well,	6,093	1,998	8,091	36·5	3·7	17·0	1·9
Superior instruction,	273	18	291	1·6	0·2	0·1	–

Total,	16,693	11,787	28,480	100·	100·	100·	100·

The comparison in this table shows that there is a larger per-centage of prisoners in Ireland entirely destitute of instruction than in England and Wales, whilst of those who are educated there is a larger per-centage who can read and write well.

Occupations of prisoners.

The following table shows a comparison between Ireland in 1866 and England and Wales in 1865, as regards the proportion per cent. of the prisoners in the various occupations :—

Total,	16,693	11,787	28,480	100·	100·	100·	100·

The excess of factory workers and mechanics in England and Wales indicated in this table arises from the greater number employed in manufactures there, and the different proportion of the different sexes of domestic servants arises from the tax on man servants in England, which does not exist in Ireland, and the consequent greater proportional employment of women servants there.

Number of prisoners.

The following summary shows the number of prisoners in the different gaols in Ireland in 1866, compared with the corresponding number in England and Wales in 1865 :—

Number of Prisoners in the Different Gaols.	Ireland, 1866.			England and Wales, 1865.		Irish Prisoners in 1866 in excess of those in England and Wales in 1865.	Irish Prisoners in 1866 less than those in England and Wales in 1865.

The following summary shows the disposal of prisoners in the different gaols in Ireland in 1866, compared with the corresponding numbers in England and Wales in 1865:—

Disposal of Prisoners.	Ireland, 1866.			England and Wales, 1865.		Irish Prisoners in 1866 in excess of those in England and Wales in 1865.	Irish Prisoners in 1866 less than those in England and Wales in 1865.

The result of the comparison shown in the above tables between the numbers in the Irish county gaols as compared with those in the English gaols, both at the beginning and end of the year 1866 is very satisfactory, the number of Irish prisoners being at both periods very much less in proportion to the population than the number in England; and yet the Irish prisoners appear to have been dealt with much more leniently than the English prisoners, 262 having been discharged on pardon or commutation of sentence, whilst only 38 were so discharged amongst an equal portion of the population in England and Wales, and 863 having been released on bail, as compared with 199 under similar circumstances in England and Wales.

The number sent to lunatic asylums in Ireland, (553,) greatly exceeds the proportionate number (36) for England and Wales; but this arises from the state of the law, which still allows dangerous lunatics to be sent to gaols in Ireland, whilst they are sent direct to lunatic asylums in England and Wales, under Statute 1 & 2 Vic., c. 14, by which the power of sending dangerous lunatics to prisons in England was repealed in 1838.*

Number of prisoners gaols capable of accommodating.

The following summary shows the number of persons the different gaols in Ireland are constructed to contain, the greatest number confined at one time, and the daily average number:—

	Men and Boys.	Women and Girls.	Total.
Prisons constructed to contain	5,208	2,169	7,377
Greatest number of prisoners confined at one time,	2,792	1,107	3,899
Daily average number of prisoners in the year,	1,857	835	2,692

* By Stat. 30 and 31 Vic., c. 118, passed while this report was going through the press; the law in Ireland is assimilated to the law in England, so that dangerous lunatics in Ireland will, for the future, be sent direct to asylums.

Punishments for prison offences.

The following summary shows the punishments for prison offences in the different gaols in Ireland in 1866, with the corresponding numbers for English prisons in 1865 :—

Punishments for Prison Offences.	Ireland, 1866.			England and Wales, 1865.	English proportion of Punishments for Irish daily average number of Prisoners.	Excess of English proportion of Punishments above Irish proportion for Irish daily average number of Prisoners.	English proportion of Punishments less than Irish proportion.
	Men and Boys.	Women and Girls.	Total of both Sexes.	Total.
Whipping,	–	–	–	130	19	19	–
Irons or handcuffs,	11	8	19	177	26	7	–
Solitary or dark cells,	1,181	217	1,398	18,053	2,695	1,296	–
Stoppage of diet,	299	93	392	42,307	6,315	5,923	–
Other punishments,	128	29	157	–	–	–	157
Total,	1,619	347	1,966	60,667	9,055	7,089

The contrast between the Irish and English prisons shown by those figures is remarkable. There were 9,055 punishments inflicted in English prisons amongst 2,692 prisoners (the Irish daily average number), while there were only 1,966 punishments inflicted in Irish prisons among the same daily average number of prisoners.

Discipline was maintained in Ireland in 1866 without whipping, with less resort to irons or handcuffs, with about one-half the use of solitary or dark cells, and the stoppage of diet in Ireland was rendered necessary only 392 times, as compared with 6,315 times in England and Wales.

Number of officers in gaols.

The following summary shows the number of officers in Irish county gaols, and the number of officers of each class in the corresponding English prisons for comparison :—

Rank of Officers.	Ireland, 1866.			England and Wales, 1865.	English proportion of Officers for Irish number of Prisons.	Irish proportion of Officers in excess of English.	English proportion of Officers in excess of Irish.
	Men.	Women.	Total.	Total.

Local Inspectors,	38	–	38	–	–	38	–
Chaplains,	92	–	92	143	39	53	–
Surgeons,	49	–	49	140	38	11	–
Clerks, Schoolmasters, Schoolmistresses,	48	9	57	179	49	8	–
Upper Warders, Matrons,	60	58	118	1,415	383	8	–
Under Warders,	225	48	273
Other subordinate officers,	29	34	63	372	100	–	37
Total,	599	149	748	2,423	656	92	–

The chief points to be noticed in the Irish as compared with the English gaols in respect of officers is the greater staff of officers in Ireland, especially of officers of a superior class, the number of Chaplains in Ireland being 92 where there were only 39 in England, and the Local Inspectors being entirely wanting in England.

These figures are very important in connexion with the circumstance that discipline is maintained in Irish gaols with very much fewer cases of punishment for prison offences than in England.

The following summary shows the expenses in detail, the total costs of gaols and of officers and prisoners, and the average charge per prisoner in Ireland in 1866 with the corresponding figures for England and Wales in 1865 :—

Number of convicts, and their disposal.

The following summary shows the result of a comparison of the returns from the Directors of Convict Prisons for 1866 with those for 1865 :—

„ Daily Average during the year,	1,087	462	1,549	1,713	–	164

It appears from this summary that there was a diminution of 7 in the number of convicts received during the year, from 312 in 1865 to 305 in 1866, being at the rate of 2 per cent., indicating a diminution to that extent in the more serious offences for which severe punishments were inflicted during the year.

There was a decrease in the number let out on tickets-of-leave from 310 in 1865 to 308 in 1866. The number of tickets-of-leave granted in England amongst an equal number of convicts disposed of in 1865 was 326.

There was an increase in the number of those discharged on the termination of their sentence, from 96 in 1865 to 108 in 1866, but this number is higher than the number (26) discharged on the termination of their sentence in England amongst an equal number of convicts disposed of in 1865.

Reformatory Schools.

The Inspector of Reformatory Schools has made returns in forms somewhat similar to those in the English Judicial Statistics.

There are 4 reformatory schools for boys, and 5 for girls in Ireland. Three are for Protestants, of which 2 are for boys and 1 for girls ; six are for Roman Catholics, of which 2 are for boys and 4 for girls. The total number committed in 1866 was 163. Of these, 136 were boys and 27 girls ; 142 were Roman Catholics, and 21 were Protestants.

Reformatory Schools.

Terms of detention in reformatories.

The terms of detention of the offenders committed in 1866 were as follow :—

Previous imprisonment—		Subsequent detention in reformatories—
14 days,	104	2 years,	1
1 month and above 14 days,	48	3 years,	17
2 months and above 1 month,	9	4 years,	17
4 months and above 2 months,	2	5 years,	128

The number committed on indictment before Judges of the Superior Courts, the Recorder of Dublin, and the Chairmen of Quarter Sessions, was 24, or 15 per cent. of the entire number; and 139, or 85 per cent., were committed on summary convictions before Justices. These numbers show an increase upon the numbers in 1865 of 18 boys, and a decrease of 15 girls, giving a total increase of 3.

As 20 per cent. were committed on indictments in 1865, it appears that a smaller proportion has been committed from the higher tribunals in 1866. In England and Wales in 1865, 22 per cent. were committed on indictment.

Position as regards parental control of boys and girls in reformatories.

The position of those committed to reformatories in Ireland, as regards parental control, is shown by the following table :—

	One only.	Both.	Total.
Parents dead,	57	32	89
Deserted by parents,	13	4	17
Parents in prison,	–	3	3
Otherwise uncontrolled by parents,	11	20	31
Total not under parental control,	81	59	140
Under parental control,	11	12	23
Total,	92	71	163

It appears from this table that of the entire number (163) of boys and girls in reformatory schools, only 12, or 7 per cent., were under the control of both parents, and only 23, or 14 per cent., under the control of one or both parents, showing that reformatories are really supplying to their inmates the want of parental control and support which may be taken as the chief cause of the crimes of those committed to reformatories.

Ages and state of instruction of boys and girls in reformatories.

This want of parental control and support is further shown in the state of instruction as indicated in the following table :—

AGES AND STATE OF INSTRUCTION OF BOYS AND GIRLS IN REFORMATORIES.	Aged 10 and under.	Aged 11, and above 10.	Aged 12, and above 11.	Aged 13, and above 12.	Aged 14, and above 13.	Aged 15, and above 14.	Under 16, and above 15.	Total.

Instruction not ascertained,	–	–	–	–	–	–	–	–

It appears from this summary that of the entire number, (163,) only 15, or 9 per cent., could read and write well, and only 7, or 4 per cent., had received superior instruction, thus leaving 87 per cent. with a neglected education; it also appears that 75 of the entire number, or 46 per cent., were entirely ignorant, being unable to read or write.

In Ireland there are no certified Industrial Schools, the Consolidated Statute for maintaining these schools in England and Scotland (29 & 30 Vic., c. 118) not having been extended to this country.

It appears from the Police returns that the class for whose benefit Industrial Schools are intended is proportionally more numerous in Ireland than in England and Wales, the 3,227 vagrants and tramps in Ireland under 16 years of age being 1,533 in excess of 1,694 the number to be found in an equal population in England and Wales in 1865.

In previous reports I had occasion to notice the strange anomaly, that the power of sending lunatics to gaols was conferred on Justices in Ireland in 1838, the very year in which this power was taken away by statute in England.

A bill has been introduced by your Lordship, with every prospect of passing,* to put an end to this anomaly, and the power of committing lunatics to gaols will at the end of the present year be taken away.

The opening of new Asylums at Castlebar and Letterkenny, during the year 1866, led to a reduction in the number of lunatics in gaols in those counties from 45 in Mayo and 42 in Donegal on 31st December, 1865, to none in either county on 31st December, 1866. There was also a diminution in other counties, making, in the aggregate, a reduction from 482 lunatics under detention in gaols on 31st December, 1865, to 332 on 31st December, 1866.

These numbers do not, however, give a full idea of the importance of the change. In Mayo and Donegal, before the erection of the Asylums put an end to the continuous confinement of lunatics in gaols, there were 17 lunatics who had been between one and two years in gaol, 9 between two and three years, 14 between three and five years, and 4 between five and ten years.

In all Ireland there were, of those under detention at any time during 1866, 63 lunatics who had been between one and two years in gaol, 66 between three and five years, 47 between five and ten years, and 5 between ten and fifteen years.

The effect the new bill is likely to have is indicated by other figures. Of the entire number (1,235) of lunatics at any time under detention in gaols, in 1866, only 63 became insane in gaol or were found insane at Assizes or Quarter Sessions, whilst 1,149 were committed by Justices under the provisions of Stat. 1 & 2 Vic., c. 27, and 8 & 9 Vic., c. 107, which it is now proposed to repeal.

The improved forms of return have led to more complete and accurate statistics as to criminal lunatics in Ireland in 1866, than in preceding years.

The number of criminal lunatics in gaols and asylums, and the number discharged and under detention, are shown by the following summary :—

CRIMINAL LUNATICS.	GAOLS.			ASYLUMS (Estimate).†			Total Gaols and Asylums.
	Men and Boys.	Women and Girls.	Total.	Men and Boys.	Women and Girls.	Total.
Remaining under detention, . .	218	114	332	1,135	756	1,891	2,223

If the number of criminal lunatics in custody be compared with those in an equal population in England and Wales in 1865, we get the following result :—

CRIMINAL LUNATICS IN IRELAND COMPARED WITH THOSE IN ENGLAND AND WALES.	IRELAND, 1866.	ENGLAND AND WALES, 1865.		Irish Criminal Lunatics in custody in 1866 in excess of those in equal Population in England and Wales in 1865.	Irish Criminal Lunatics in custody in 1866 less than those in equal Population in England and Wales in 1865.
		Total.	Number in a portion of the Population of England and Wales equal to that of Ireland.
Remaining under detention at end of year,	2,223	1,032	271	1,952	–

* The bill passed while this report was going through the press (Stat. 30 & 31 Vic., c. 118). It provides that dangerous lunatics are to be sent to Asylums, and that they may be given up to their relatives on proper security. The Act also provides that the persons so committed may be discharged on recovery on certificate of the Medical Officer of Asylums like other lunatic poor without warrant of Lord Lieutenant.

† There being no return from Armagh in making up this estimate, I have added the numbers returned for Armagh in 1865 to those for other Asylums in 1866.

Criminal Lunatics.

It appears from this comparison that in 1866 there were upwards of seven times as many lunatics under detention as criminals in Ireland, in proportion to population, as in England and Wales in 1865.

The cause of this difference forms an important subject of inquiry, whether it arises from the larger proportion of police in Ireland, or from the smaller number of private asylums, and smaller number of dangerous lunatics supported by their friends as mere lunatics, from the smaller number of idiots and lunatics supported in families assisted by outdoor relief, or from the apparently greater prevalence of drunkenness indicated by the police statistics, or from any other difference in the circumstance of the two countries.

The returns as to the offences with which the criminal lunatics under detention were charged are complete with regard to those under detention in gaols, and with regard to 2,239 of the number (2,341) detained in Asylums.

I have not in this table added those in gaols in Ireland to those in asylums, for as 560 lunatics were removed from gaols to asylums during the year, that number appears in both returns, and the returns do not distinguish the offences with which they were charged.

It appears from this table that the chief difference in the character of the offences with which criminal lunatics were charged in Ireland and in England and Wales is that in Ireland an extraordinary number were committed as simply dangerous persons at large—(1,149 in gaols, and 1,862 of those who had been committed to gaols and afterwards sent on to asylums), whilst there was only 1 committed of the same character in England and Wales in 1865.

The judgments or orders under which criminal lunatics were detained in Ireland in 1866 are contrasted with the corresponding statistics for England and Wales in 1865 in the following table :—

The principal new feature shown by this table is the extraordinary proportion of criminal lunatics in England and Wales that became insane while undergoing sentences of imprisonment as compared with the corresponding number in Ireland. These figures suggest matter for inquiry as to how far this difference may arise from the different systems of prison discipline in the two countries.

SUMMARY OF CONCLUSIONS IN REPORT.

The following is a Summary of some of the principal conclusions in this Report on the Irish Criminal Statistics for 1866.

1. The year 1866 presents a smaller number of persons for trial at Assizes, the Dublin Commission Court, and at Quarter Sessions, than any year of the last ten. The number has been reduced from 7,210 in 1857, to 4,326 in 1866, which shows a diminution of 2,884 cases or of 40 per cent. Allowing for reduction of population, the diminution of serious crime in Ireland in ten years is from 122 to 77 in each 100,000 of the population, or 37 per cent.

2. The chief unfavourable feature in the statistics of those for trial in 1866 as compared with preceding years, is the increase in treasonable-felony. There were no cases of treasonable-felony in 1863; there were 11 cases in 1864; 41 in 1865, and 52 in 1866. The continuous progress in the number of cases of this grave offence is in strong contrast to the general and progressive diminution of other crimes in the same years.

3. In connexion with the efforts to extend manufactures in Ireland the statistics afford satisfactory results. There was not a single person for trial for destroying machines or goods in process of manufacture in 1866. The number, however, for trial for riot and for feloniously demolishing buildings, machinery, &c., has increased from 1 in 1865 to 6 in 1866, and there were three persons tried during the year for offences connected with conspiracies or combinations to raise the rate of wages. These statistics are on the whole highly creditable to the tradesmen and labouring classes engaged in manufactures.

4. Two persons were executed in 1866, which is about the same number which 8 executions in England and Wales in 1865 would give for a portion of the population equal to that of Ireland.

5. The verdicts of wilful murder brought in by Coroners' juries in Ireland were 64, being 42 less than 106, the number which the 402 verdicts for murder in England and Wales in 1865 would give for a population equal to that of Ireland.

6. In the verdicts of Coroners' juries infanticide or murder of children under 1 year is distinguished from murders of persons above 1 year; and it appears that both infanticides and other murders were more numerous in England and Wales than in Ireland. Thus the number which the 175 verdicts of infanticide in England and Wales in 1865 would give for a population equal to that of Ireland is 46, while the number of verdicts of infanticide in Ireland was only 40; and while the 227 other verdicts of murder in England and Wales would give 60 for Ireland, there were only 24 returned.

7. Infanticides as compared with other murders are excessive in both countries; as there are 2·4 children under 1 year of age in Ireland in every 100 of the population, it follows that the 40 infanticides are 67 times the number of murders which occurred in Ireland in 1866, amongst the same number of persons at other age-periods.

8. The 46 infanticides in England and Wales, in a portion of the population equal to that of Ireland, was 25 times the number of murders in England and Wales in 1865 amongst the same number of persons at other age-periods.

9. The statistics of infanticide indicated by the verdicts of Coroners' juries in both countries are very startling, and resting as they do upon the sworn verdicts of a number of independent juries, before different Coroners, in all parts of both countries, the statistics are free from any prejudice which might lead to a wrong estimate or statement as to the excess of infanticide which is to be deduced from them.

SUMMARY OF CONCLUSIONS IN REPORT.

10. The entire number of indictable offences (not disposed of summarily) in Ireland in 1866 was only 9,082, being 4,668, or 34 per cent. less than the number (13,750) in a corresponding portion of the population of England and Wales in 1865.

11. The characteristics of Irish crime, indicated by the summary of indictable offences returned by the Police, and not disposed of summarily, correspond with those observed last year, the most unfavourable features being treasonable and seditious offences, malicious offences against property, riots, assaults inflicting bodily harm, and other assaults.

12. Of offences against property there is a much smaller number than in a corresponding portion of the population in England and Wales. In the offences of attempts to murder, shooting at, wounding, stabbing, &c., to do bodily harm, and manslaughter, the Irish statistics are more favourable than the English, and also in the statistics of unnatural offences, rape and immoral offences, perjury, and attempts to commit suicide.

13. In the minor cases of indictable offences (determined summarily) there are the same characteristics as those exhibited by the tables of graver cases (not determined summarily); the number of such offences is 21,859, being 2,784 or 11 per cent. less than the number (24,643) in a portion of the population in England and Wales in 1865 equal to that of Ireland; there is also less of theft, and of crimes indicating a low moral tone, such as aggravated assaults on women and children, than in England and Wales. On the other hand, there is a greater prevalence of malicious offences in Ireland.

14. There appears to be a greater excess of the less serious offences reported by the police and disposed of summarily, the number in Ireland being 214,976, as compared with 96,123, in an equal portion of the population of England and Wales. The excess of 110,348 (after deducting 8,505 for offences unclassed) is more than accounted for by the excess of offences under the four following heads: Drunkenness, in which the excess was 54,481; offences against Acts of Parliament, such as Ways Acts, Pawnbrokers' Act, Revenue Laws, &c., 48,828; offences against Vagrant Acts, 2,391; common assaults, 10,340; which make a total of 116,040.

15. That the excess of minor offences reported by the police most probably arises from the police being twice as numerous in proportion to the population as they are in England and Wales, is shown by the statistics as to prostitutes. Thus while it appears from the Police Tables that the number of prostitutes known to the police in Ireland in 1866 was 3,157 as compared with 7,249, in an equal portion of the population in England and Wales in 1865, there were 4,242 charges against prostitutes under the Vagrant Acts in Ireland in 1866 as compared with 1,851 in an equal portion of the population in England and Wales in 1865.

16. The comparison of the criminal classes in Ireland with those in England and Wales exhibits the very satisfactory result, that notwithstanding the large number of Police in Ireland, the number of criminal classes, other than vagrants and tramps, known to the Police in 1866 was only 10,118, being less than one-half the number (21,826) in an equal portion of the population of England and Wales in 1865.

17. In consequence of the difference in the Poor Laws and in the laws as to Industrial Schools in both countries, the vagrants and tramps are distinguished in the Tables from the other criminal classes, but the returns for 1866 exhibit a decrease as compared with the statistics for 1865 as well in the number of this class as in the number of the other criminal classes. The general decrease in the number of juvenile delinquents is very satisfactory, especially the decrease in the number of vagrants and tramps which had been increasing for several years.

18. The excess of vagrants and tramps of all ages in Ireland (amounting to 2,712), as compared with the number in an equal portion of the population of England and Wales, is very small when the difference between the proportion of the poor in receipt of Poor Law Relief in Ireland and in England and Wales is taken into consideration. The average daily number in receipt of relief in Ireland in 1866–67 was 50,241 in workhouses, and 12,205 outdoor, or 62,446 in all, being 188,053 less than the number (250,499), in receipt of relief in 1865, in a portion of the population of England and Wales equal to that of Ireland.

19. The Dublin Metropolitan Police are in the proportion of 1 to 302 of the population, while in the London district the force is in the proportion of 1 to 457 of the population. In the rest of Ireland the Police are 1 to every 450 of the population, and in the rest of England and Wales 1 to 902 of the population.

20. In the Statistics of Jurors' Sessions the different districts present great diversity in the number of qualified Jurors in proportion to population, from 1 in 56 of the population in Carlow to 1 in 250 of the population in Roscommon. This arises in part from the greater or less extent to which the leasehold tenure, upon which the qualification mainly depends, has been replaced in different districts by a yearly tenancy, which is not except in towns a qualification for a Juror.

21. The diversity in the number of Jurors arises in part from the extent to which the statutable provisions as to the qualifications are disregarded. It appears that in 27 districts out of 73 from which returns have been received, 2,909 persons were returned as Jurors with other than the statutable qualifications, being 7 per cent. of the entire number (41,251) of Jurors returned.

22. The number of criminal lunatics in Ireland under detention at the end of the year 1866 was 2,223, being 1,952 in excess of the number (271) under detention at the end of 1865, in a portion of the population of England and Wales equal to that of Ireland.

23. In the commitments to bridewells there is a decrease in the number of commitments for drunkenness, the numbers being 8,109 in 1863; 9,513 in 1864; 10,650 in 1865; and 9,782 in 1866.

24. In the number of commitments to county gaols there is a reduction of 3,429 from 32,857 in 1865 to 29,428 in 1866.

25. From the statistics of the birthplace of prisoners it appears there were less than 1 per cent. of the women and girls, and less than 4 per cent. of the men and boys not of Irish birth in Irish gaols, while in England and Wales there were 16 per cent. of the men and boys, and 26 per cent. of the women and girls in English prisons not born in England and Wales, and of these strangers no less than 12 per cent. of the men and boys and 21 per cent. of the women and girls were of Irish birth.

26. With regard to the education of the prisoners it appears that 36·7 per cent. of men and boys and 51·2 per cent. of the women and girls in Irish gaols could neither read nor write, being larger per-centages entirely destitute of instruction than the English per-centages of 34·9 per cent. of men and boys and 37·6 per cent. of women and girls. On the other hand, 36·5 per cent. of men and boys and 17 per cent. of women and girls in Irish gaols could read and write well. This is a marked contrast to the 3·7 per cent. of men and boys and 1·9 per cent. of women and girls in the English gaols returned as able to read and write well.

27. The statistics of the Irish gaols exhibit the very satisfactory result of the prisoners therein, both at the beginning and end of the year 1866, being not quite half the number in proportion to population in the English county prisons. The Irish prisoners appear, however, to have been dealt with much more leniently than the English prisoners, 262 having been discharged on pardon or commutation of sentence, while only 38 were so discharged amongst an equal portion of the population in England and Wales, and 863 having been released on bail as compared with 199 under similar circumstances in England and Wales.

28. With respect to punishments for prison offences the contrast between the Irish and English prisons is remarkable. There were 9,055 punishments inflicted in English prisons amongst 2,692 prisoners (the Irish daily average number), while there were only 1,966 punishments inflicted in Irish prisons amongst the same daily average number of prisoners.

Summary of Conclusions in Report.

29. Discipline was maintained in the Irish gaols without whipping, with less resort to irons or handcuffs, with about one-half the use of solitary or dark cells, and the stoppage of diet in Ireland was rendered necessary only 392 times as compared with 6,315 times in England and Wales amongst an equal daily average number of 2,692 prisoners.

30. In connexion with the maintenance of discipline in Irish gaols the greater proportion of officers, especially officers of a superior class, is to be observed the number of Chaplains in Ireland being 92, while there were only 39 in England, and the Local Inspectors being entirely wanting in England.

31. In convict prisons there was a diminution in the number of convicts received during the year from 312 in 1865, to 305 in 1866, being at the rate of 2 per cent., indicating a diminution to that extent in the more serious offences for which severe punishments were inflicted in 1866.

32. There was an increase of 3 in the numbers sent to reformatory schools in Ireland in 1866 as compared with the numbers in 1865.

33. Of the entire number of 163 boys and girls in reformatory schools only 12, or 7 per cent., were under the control of both parents, and only 23, or 14 per cent., under the control of one or both parents, showing that reformatories are really supplying to their inmates the want of parental control and support, which may be taken as the chief cause of the crime of those committed to reformatories.

INTRODUCTORY AND EXPLANATORY REPORT.

COURT OF QUEEN'S BENCH (Crown Side).

THE Court of Queen's Bench in Ireland has, at the Crown side, a jurisdiction corresponding to the jurisdiction of the Court of Queen's Bench in England, and also a jurisdiction peculiar to the Irish Court of fiating the Presentments made by the Grand Jury of the County of Dublin for the expenditure of the local tax, called county cess, in the repairs of roads, expenses of prisons and asylums, and other local purposes, and of fiating the Presentments of the Town Council of the City of Dublin, so far as it exercises the powers formerly vested in the Grand Jury of the City of Dublin in respect of county cess.

In connexion with these fiscal powers the Court has jurisdiction over the Traverses of Presentments of the Grand Jury or Town Council, chiefly for new roads and Claims for Malicious Injuries to property.

The Court has also a jurisdiction, peculiar to Ireland, in the case of Railway Traverses under the Railways (Ireland) Act, 1851 (14 & 15 Vic., c. 70).

The ordinary business at the Crown side of the Court of Queen's Bench as compared with the preceding year, may be judged of by the following summary:—

—	1866.	1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.
Writs of Mandamus, application for, . .	7	14	–	7
Writs of Habeas Corpus, ...	22	19	3	–

Information, Rules Nisi, ...	–	1	–	1
On Orders of Sessions and Special Cases, . .	1	–	1	–
Other Special Rules absolute, . . .	128	109	19	–

These figures show a large increase in Special Rules, an increase in Writs of Habeas Corpus, and a considerable decrease in Writs of Mandamus.

The unsatisfactory state of the jurisdiction of the Crown side of the Court of Queen's Bench in Ireland as compared with the corresponding jurisdiction in England, is indicated by the following statements and suggestions of the English and Irish Law and Chancery Commissioners, which have not yet been made the subject of legislation. The Commissioners state that—

"There are no published rules regulating the practice on the Crown side of the Court of Queen's Bench in Ireland, and the powers which the Judges of the Court of Queen's Bench in England have, under Stat. 6 & 7 Vic., c. 20, s. 11, of framing rules, do not exist in Ireland;" "there are other differences in the practice between the two countries, arising from the reforms introduced by the above Statute into England not having been extended to Ireland;" and they recommend, "that the Court of

COURT OF QUEEN'S BENCH (Crown Side).

Queen's Bench in Ireland should be provided with like powers to those of the Court in England, and that the proceedings and practice adopted in England by the Crown side of the Court of Queen's Bench should be extended to Ireland."

The business of the Crown side of the Court of Queen's Bench in Ireland, peculiar to the Irish Court, as compared with the preceding year, is as follows:—

—	1866.	1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.
Fiscal Presentments:

Objections to Claims,	2	–	2	–
County Presentments—Claims—Trial by Jury,	–	1	–	1

An increase has again taken place in the amount of Fiscal Presentments, in the County and City of Dublin.

The claims for Malicious Injuries in the County and City of Dublin show a considerable increase above those for 1865.

SUPERIOR COURTS OF COMMON LAW.

Writ and Seal Office.

The issue of Writs for the three Superior Courts of Common Law from a Consolidated Writ and Seal Office was established in 1850 by the Process and Practice Act (Stat. 13 & 14 Vic., c. 18), and the Writs of Summons and Plaint are issued in rotation, 25 for each of the three Courts, under the provisions of the Irish Common Law Procedure Act, 1853, s. 15.

The plaintiff is by the provisions of the same Act prevented from issuing his writ until he has prepared his first pleading. As the summons and plaint corresponds to the English writ and declaration consolidated, the use of writs to the same extent as in England and Wales is thus prevented.

Writs.

The writs issued are compared with those in the preceding year in the following summary:—

Writs of Execution.

The writs of execution were :—

Total, . .	4,613	4,588	25

These figures show an increase of less than 3 per cent. in the number of writs, and an increase of less than 1 per cent. in the number of executions.

Attorneys licences.

The number of Attorneys' licences sealed and entered were :—

In 1866, ...	1,163
In 1865, ...	1,130
Increase in 1866, . .	33

These figures show an increase of 33, which indicates a marked change, as there was a decrease of 102 in 1865.

Jurisdiction.

The jurisdiction of the three Superior Courts of Common Law corresponded very closely with the jurisdiction of the similar Courts in England from the introduction into Ireland of the Common Law of England in the reign of King John until the year 1828. Up to that year the differences in the practice and procedure between the Superior Courts of Common Law of the two countries were inconsiderable. But in the progress of law reform since then, the various Acts to reform the practice and procedure having been passed for the two countries at different times, considerable differences have been introduced, which are fully detailed in the First Report of the English and Irish Law and Chancery Commission made in 1863.

The existence of these numerous minute differences consequently creates an impediment in the way of any useful comparison of the statistics of the corresponding Courts in the two countries.

Bills founded upon the recommendations of the Commissioners to effect the termination of these differences have been introduced in successive Sessions but have not as yet received the sanction of the Legislature.

Proceedings returned by Masters.

The proceedings in the Masters' Offices of the Superior Courts of Common Law in Ireland as compared with the preceding year are shown in the following summary:—

There was a decrease in the number of Cognovit Judgments in 1866, as compared with 1865, from 935 to 821, or 12 per cent.; and this following a decrease of 282 in 1864, makes a total decrease of 32 per cent. in two years. There has been a slight increase in the number of Case Judgments. The amount recovered on both kinds of judgments increased from £879,003 to £925,279.

Proceedings before a single Judge.

In Ireland there is not, as in England, a fifth Judge in each Court to sit out for Chamber Business. One of the four Judges consequently sits for each Court for ex parte motions before the sitting of the Court in Banco. Out of term the puisne Judges sit in rotation to hear motions for the three Superior Courts of Common Law.

The business before a single Judge, and in the Rules Office, as compared with the preceding year, may be judged of by the following summary, which shows an increase in 1866:—

There appears from the preceding table to have been an increase in some branches of the business before the full Court in Banco in the three Superior Courts of Common Law, and a decrease in others, but on the whole a slight increase, which, following an increase in 1865, shows continuous progress in the chief business of these Courts.

Bills of Sale, Acknowledgments by Married Women, and Revenue, &c., Cases.

Besides the business common to the three Superior Courts of Common Law at the Plea side, they have each small branches of distinct business. Thus, the Court of Queen's Bench has the registration of Bills of Sale, under the Bills of Sale Act (17 & 18 Vic. c. 36); the Court of Common Pleas has the Acknowledgments of Deeds by Married Women, under the Irish Act for the abolition of Fines and Recoveries (Stat. 4 & 5 Wm. IV., c. 92); and the Court of Exchequer has its ancient jurisdiction in Revenue cases, from which it derives its name.

The business in these matters as compared with the preceding year, is as follows:—

There was an increase in the number of Bills of Sale registered in 1866 as compared with the number in 1865.

There was a considerable increase in the number of acknowledgments by married women.

SUPERIOR COURTS OF COMMON LAW.

In Revenue cases there was an increase of 100 per cent., and in Legacy Succession Duty cases a decrease of 71 per cent.

Registration of Judgments Office.

There is in Ireland, as in England, an office for the registration of Judgments common to the three Superior Courts of Common Law. In England the office is superintended by the Senior Master of the Court of Common Pleas. In Ireland there is a separate officer, called the Registrar of Judgments.

The Law and Chancery Commissioners in their Second Report, 1866, give an account of the difference of the law of Judgments in Ireland and England; they say :—

"As the result of our inquiries on the law of Judgments, it appears that while in England the tendency of the whole course of legislation down to and inclusive of the Act of 1864 (27 & 28 Vic., c. 112), has been to reduce a Judgment to a step in the course of procedure for the recovery of a debt, insomuch as by the last mentioned Act it is provided that 'no Judgment to be entered up after the passing of the Act shall affect any land of whatever tenure, until such land shall have been actually delivered in execution by virtue of a writ of elegit, or other lawful authority.' In Ireland, on the other hand, the legislation down to and inclusive of the Record of Title Act, 1865, has been in the opposite direction, and Judgments affect land in Ireland prior to and entirely independent of execution, and the writ of elegit has there been virtually abolished.

"The extent to which this difference in the course of legislation has affected the position of Judgments in the two countries, appears from a return showing that in Ireland no less than 11,611 Judgments, estimated to be securities for upwards of £12,000,000, have been re-registered within the five years ending the 31st December, 1864, and so far appear not to have been immediately executed, whilst in England and Wales the number of Judgments re-registered in the five years ending 1863 was only 1,778.

"Again, under the Judgment Mortgage Act, 12,000 statutable mortgages of land in Ireland, estimated to be securities for £4,000,000, have been created by the registration of affidavits as to judgments under that Act."a

The number of Judgments registered in the Registration of Judgments Office, as compared with the preceding year, is as follows :—

The decrease of 3,611 in the number of judgments registered arose from the recurrence in 1865 of one of the quinquennial periods for the re-registration of old judgments obtained prior to 1850.

If the number of judgments registered be compared with the number entered up in the three Superior Courts of Common Law, it appears that, whilst 4,725 judgments were entered up, 3,937 were registered in the Registration of Judgments Office. When the Judgment Mortgage Act was passed it was expected by the framers of that Act that the amount of business in the Registration of Judgments Office would be diminished by its operation; but this expectation was founded upon the consideration of judgments only as charges on land, and the provisions of the Irish Bankruptcy Act of 1849, continued by the Act of 1857, requiring judgments to be registered within twenty-one days after being entered up, to secure priority in bankruptcy, were overlooked.

Common Law Taxing Office.

There is in Ireland one Common Law Taxing Office for the three Superior Courts, with two Taxing Officers.

The business in 1866, as compared with the preceding year, was as follows:—

Number of Bills of Costs certified.	1866.	1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.
Records, &c.,	1,557	1,282	275	–

Certified Costs—Amount allowed,	43,512 13 10	47,798 5 8	–	4,285 11 10

It appears from this table that while there was an increase in the costs on records for taxation, there was a considerable falling off in the whole business of the Common Law Taxing Office, arising chiefly from diminution in the re-registration of judgments—the year 1865 being one of the quinquennial periods for the re-registration of old judgments, as above noticed.

SUPERIOR COURTS OF COMMON LAW.

In addition to the disposal of actions at the Consolidated Nisi Prius Court, the proceedings at which have been included in the summary already given of the Nisi Prius business of the three Superior Courts, it has an appeal jurisdiction from the Courts of the Recorder of the City of Dublin and of the Chairman of the County of Dublin.

Appeals heard at Consolidated Nisi Prius Court.

The number of these appeals or rehearings in 1866 and 1865 was as follows :—

APPEALS AT CONSOLIDATED NISI PRIUS.		Entered.	Affirmed.	Reversed.	Settled, Struck out, &c.
From Decree or Dismiss of Recorder of Dublin, or of Chairman of County of Dublin, ...	1866	28	18	8	2

CIRCUIT BUSINESS.

The Nisi Prius proceedings on circuit have been included in the summaries of the business of the three Superior Courts.

Appeals, Traverses, and Claims for Malicious Injuries.

In Ireland the Judges on circuit have several branches of jurisdiction not exercised by the Judges on circuit in England, viz., appeals of the nature of rehearings from the decisions of the Chairmen of Counties or Irish County Court Judges, and Recorders; the fiating of the presentments of the Grand Juries of the local tax in Ireland called Grand Jury Cess; the hearing of traverses and objections to presentments, and claims for malicious injuries, and also the hearing of railway traverses under the Irish Railway Act, 1851 (14 & 15 Vic., c. 70).

The following summary shows the proceedings under these heads in 1866 as compared with those in 1865 :—

CIRCUIT BUSINESS.	1866.	1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.
Appeals from Chairmen of Counties entered,	351	339	12	–
" Recorders entered, . .	2	7	–	5
Railway Traverses, ...	12	15	–	3
Claims for Malicious Injuries, . . .	328	393	–	65
Objections to such claims, ...	24	47	23	–
Appeals against rejection of such claims, .	7	10	3	–

The traverses and claims for malicious injuries for the County and City of Dublin are disposed of by the Court of Queen's Bench, and have been already noticed.

The decrease of 65 in the number of claims for malicious injuries on circuit, over the number for 1865, more than counterbalances the increase of 6 in the claims for malicious injuries in the County and City of Dublin.

The presentments fiated on circuit were 54,012 in number, and for the aggregate sum of £956,854 17*s.* 10¾*d.* If the 477 presentments of the Grand Jury of the County of Dublin for £43,025 14*s.* 4*d.* be included, the total number of presentments by Grand Juries in Ireland amounts to 54,489, and the total amount of Grand Jury cess imposed in 1866 was £999,880 12*s.* 2¾*d.*

The presentments for the County of the City of Dublin are made by the Town Council of Dublin, and fiated partly before a Judge of the Queen's Bench, as already noticed, and partly before the Recorder of Dublin; but no return of proceedings before the Recorder of Dublin has been received. Those for the City of Cork are made by the Town Council of Cork, and are fiated before the Recorder of Cork.

HIGH COURT OF CHANCERY.

The High Court of Chancery in Ireland was founded so far back as the reign of King John, on the model of the Court of Chancery in England, and until the year 1828 the practice and procedure of the two Courts were very similar.

The different measures of Chancery reform which had been introduced in recent years in the two countries had led to considerable differences in the practice and procedure in the two Courts, which are fully detailed in the First Report of the English and Irish Law and Chancery Commission which was made in 1863.

The Chancery Act of the present session puts an end to nearly all these differences, and assimulates the practice and procedure of the Irish to that of the English Court.

Business in Court before Lord Chancellor, Master of Rolls, and Masters.

The following summary gives a comparative view of the Court business in Chancery for the years 1866 and 1865 :—

COURT BUSINESS IN CHANCERY.	1866.	1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.

It appears from this summary that there was the considerable decrease of 14 per cent. in the Court business in 1866 as compared with 1865.

Registrars' Office.

The business in the office of the Registrars of the Court of Chancery, as distinguished from the Court business, is shown for 1866 and 1865 in the following summary :—

REGISTRARS' OFFICE.	1866.	1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1865.
Number of Orders drawn up,	1,848	2,694	–	846

Printed image digitised by the University of Southampton Library Digitisation Unit

This summary shows a large decrease in the number of orders drawn up, and a decrease in the number of documents filed, but a large increase in the amount of receipts and disbursements on the accounts, and in the amount of fees received.

The proceedings in the office of the Lord Chancellor's Secretary are shown by the following summary :—

Lord Chancellor's Secretary's Office.	1866.	1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.
Petitions :—
In minor matters, ...	405	358	47	–

Total orders, . . .	973	908	65	–
Warrants as to Magistrates' Commissions,	198	153	45	–

It appears from the above summary that there was an increase in minor and lunacy matters, in orders and in warrants as to Magistrates' commissions, and a decrease in petitions in other matters. The returns for 1866 show that the number of distinct minor-matters or families of minors under the protection of the Court increased from 394 in 1865, to 439 in 1866; and that the number of individual minors who are wards of Court increased from 819 in 1865, to 922 in 1866.

In the office of Secretary to the Master of the Rolls the number of petitions was only 239, as compared with 285 in 1865, showing a decrease of 46. These petitions are not in addition to, but form part of those upon which the Lord Chancellor in chamber made an order for hearing at the Rolls.

In the Crown and Hanaper Office there was a considerable decrease of business, from 1,938 in 1865, to 1,580 in 1866.

The business in the offices of the Four Masters in Chancery, in addition to the hearing of cause petitions under the 15th section of the Irish Chancery Regulation Act of 1850, is indicated by the following summary :—

Masters' Offices.	Three Masters.	Receiver Master.	Total, 1866.	Total, 1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.
Charges, ...	423	28	451	433	18	–

Sales of estates under order of Court, .	29	5	34	16	18	–
Statements of facts as to management of property,	148	166	314	262	52	–

The returns also show the number of summonses on references in minor matters, lunacy matters, general cause petitions, &c. As the returns do not seem to have been made on the same principle, a summary is not given of them, but it may be stated that they indicate a great amount of reference business in the Masters' Offices.

Sales under the Court of Chancery increased from 16 in 1865, to 34 in 1866.

The number of accounts, other than in minor and lunacy matters (410) show a slight decrease on the numbers (445) in 1865. Notwithstanding the statutable restrictions on the appointment of Receivers, there is still, as indicated by these numbers, a large quantity of property under the management of the Court of Chancery. This is further indicated by the number of statements of facts as to the management of such property (314), which shows an increase of 52 on the number (262) for 1865. The receipts in the accounts filed in the Court of Chancery amounted in 1866 to £1,046,868, showing an increase of £200,671 on the receipts for 1865.

The operation of the rule, for some time in force, of referring receiver cases to the Receiver Master is shown by the number of accounts in his office (448), being an increase upon the number (399) in 1865, whilst the average number (57) in the offices of each of the other three Masters shows a falling off from the number (85) in 1865.

The fees collected in the Masters' offices amounted for the year ending 30th October, 1866, to £2,027, but this does not include the Chancery Fund duties in lieu of fees, which are imposed chiefly on business in the Masters' offices, and the produce of which is carried to the Consolidated Fund.

Examiner's Office.

One of the differences of practice and procedure between the Courts of Chancery in Ireland and in England is the very small number of witnesses examined before the Examiner in Ireland. Thus there were only 45 witnesses examined in 1866, and the fees amounted to only £61. This was about the number of witnesses (43) examined in 1865.

Companies Winding-up Acts.

Under the Joint Stock Companies Winding-up Acts there is only one case in the Court of Chancery, namely, the Tipperary Bank, which has been in the Court since 17th March, 1856. The usual proceeding for winding up companies in Ireland is in the Court of Bankruptcy. There is, in this case, £15,720 available for distribution.

Rolls Office.

In the Pleadings department of the office of the Deputy Keeper of the Rolls the business, as compared with that in 1865, was as follows :—

ROLLS OFFICE—PLEADINGS DEPARTMENT.	1866.	1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.
Bills,	–	–	–	–
Cause petitions,	615	694	–	79
Answering affidavits,	222	218	4	–
Interrogatories and answers thereto,	–	1	–	1
Amendments,	63	67	–	4
Suggestions,	20	29	–	9

It appears from this summary that there was a considerable falling off in the number of cause petitions, viz., from 694 in 1865 to 615 in 1866.

Appearances and Writs Office.

In the office of the Clerk of Appearances and Writs the number of appearances entered was 678, as compared with 658 in 1865. The following are the numbers of the principal writs issued :—

WRITS IN CHANCERY.	1866.	1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.
Writs of subpœna,	77	79	–	2

„ injunction,	51	38	13	–
„ fi. fa.,	20	5	15	–
„ partition,	1	1	–	–

It appears from the foregoing summary that there was a slight increase in the number of writs issued in 1866.

There is a department of this office peculiar to the Irish Court of Chancery, called "The Notice Department," through which all notices are served, instead of service being proved by affidavit. The number of persons served through this department was 18,714 in 1866, showing a considerable decrease on the number of persons (21,912) served in 1865.

Printed image digitised by the University of Southampton Library Digitisation Unit

In the Affidavit Office the number of affidavits filed was 5,048, as compared with 4,977 in 1865, showing an increase of 71. Affidavit Office.

In the Recognizance Office the number of recognizances filed was 123, as compared with 118 in 1865. Recognizance Office.

The following Table shows the business in the Chancery Taxing Office for 1866, as compared with 1865 :— Chancery Taxing Office.

Chancery Taxing Office.	1866.	1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.
Number of bills taxed,	1,895	1,600	295	–
Number of items,	258,480	201,180	57,300	–
Number of certificates,	1,758	1,600	158	–

Amount of costs,	129,718 6 11	97,890 5 9½	31,828 1 1½	–

It appears from this summary that there was a considerable increase in 1866 in the amount of Chancery costs taxed.

The jurisdiction in lunacy under the Queen's Sign Manual has almost invariably been intrusted to the Lord Chancellor, or Keeper of the Great Seal in Ireland. The business to be transacted not being sufficient to support an entirely distinct department, it devolves, to a large extent, on the ordinary officers of the Court of Chancery, the references and passing of accounts being before one of the Masters in Chancery, and included in the business of the Masters already noticed. Lunacy Office.

The petitions again are lodged in the office of the Secretary of the Lord Chancellor, and are returned in the business of his office, whilst the inquisitions are issued from and returned to the Clerk of the Crown and Hanaper, and are included in the business of that office.

The jurisdiction was originally the same in Ireland and in England, but the new practice and procedure, introduced in England by the Lunacy Regulation Acts of 1853 and 1862, have not yet been extended to Ireland.

The number of orders for commissions of Lunacy was 8 in 1866, and 12 in 1865, and the number of lunatics under the care of the Court was 143 in 1866, as compared with 137 in 1865, showing an increase of 6.

In connexion with the small number of lunatics protected by the Court out of the entire number in Ireland, which may be estimated at 16,500,* the difference which exists between Ireland and England as to jurisdiction is to be borne in mind. A lunatic cannot be found so in Ireland except by inquisition at a considerable expense, necessary for the remuneration of Commissioners, Jury, and Sheriff; whilst in England, under the Lunacy Regulation Act of 1853, the Lord Chancellor can dispense with a jury, and authorize a finding under the general commission of the Masters.

The chief business in the Lunacy Office was as follows :—

Lunacy Office.	1866.	1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.
Orders of the Lord Chancellor,	197	183	14	–
Affidavits,	283	251	32	–

Accounts taken by Masters,	64	66	–	2
Amounts of receipts on such accounts,	£ 61,212	£ 56,262	£ 4,950	–

* There were in January, 1865, 553 lunatics paid for in private licensed houses, 4,729 in public asylums, 188 maintained by Government, 452 in gaols, and 2,563 in workhouses, making 8,485 publicly treated as insane. The police returns for 1862 estimate that there were besides 8,200 persons reputed insane at large, making in all 16,685.—Vide 14th Report on Lunatic Asylums, Ireland, 1865, p. 7.

HIGH COURT OF CHANCERY.

The summary indicates an increase of business in 1866.

Under the General Orders in Lunacy of 1860, the Committees of the person are required to make returns, and the Medical Inspectors appointed thereunder to make reports as to lunatics under their inspection.

Accountant-General's Office.

The return of the Accountant-General shows the payments into the Court of Chancery during the year ended 1st October, and the balance on that day in the books of the office.

	Year ended 1st October, 1866. £	Year ended 1st October, 1865. £	Increase, 1866. £	Decrease, 1866. £

Balance at end of year, . .	4,256,648	4,357,392	–	100,744

These figures indicate only an insignificant change in the payments into Court during the year 1866, whilst the balance at the end of the year shows a decrease of £100,744; but this is only about 2 per cent. on the entire balance of £4,256,648.

LANDED ESTATES COURT.

The Landed Estates Court possesses several jurisdictions peculiar to Ireland. The first of these is the selling of Estates with a Parliamentary title, for which the Incumbered Estates Court was first established in 1849 for a limited time, and after several renewals of its jurisdiction the perpetual jurisdiction of the Landed Estates Court was established in 1858.

Sales.

The value and rental of the estates sold are indicated by the following summary :—

	1866.	1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.
Amount of purchase-money, . .	£1,258,585	£1,051,992	£206,593	–
Net rental of estates sold, . .	£65,350	£60,338	£5,012	–
Number of sales, . . .	281	341	–	60

The petitions for sales relate chiefly, as might be expected, to incumbered estates, the proportion being as follows :—

	Incumbered Estates.	Unincumbered.	Settled.
Petitions for sales, 1866, . . .	404	46	–
„ „ 1865, . . .	432	49	1
Decrease in 1866,	28	3	1

This shows that while there was a slight decrease in the number of cases, the properties sold must have been larger, as there was an increase in the aggregate purchase-money and rentals.

Declaration of Title, Partitions, and Exchanges.

In the other branches of jurisdiction with respect to estates, the proceedings were as follow :—

LANDED ESTATES COURT.	Declaration of Title.	Partitions.	Exchanges.	Intermixed Lands.	Apportionments of Rent.
1866, ...	18	11	1	–	2
1865, ...	4	6	2	–	1
Increase in 1866, . .	14	5	–	–	1
Decrease in 1866, . .		–	1	–	–

Several new tables have been given as to the proceedings of the Landed Estates Court for 1866, some of which were not included in the volume for 1865. They indicate the extent of the business of the Court in a form which may be compared with the returns received from the Court of Chancery.

It appears from these Tables that the number of petitions filed was 512, while in the Court of Chancery the number of petitions to the Lord Chancellor was 981, and the number of cause petitions under the 15th section of the Chancery Regulation Act was set down as 362, and the number of general cause petitions set down in Chancery during the year was 171.

LANDED ESTATES COURT.

The amount of costs taxed and certified in the Landed Estates Court was £45,082, but the amount of costs lodged for taxation was about the usual proportion of 33 per cent. above this amount, or £59,292. The return for the Court of Chancery shows only the amount of costs lodged,* which were certified during the year, and the sum is £129,718.

Taxing Office.

Affidavits.

The number of affidavits filed in the Landed Estates Court was 4,365, while the number in the Affidavit Office of the Court of Chancery was 5,048.

Tenure and Improvement of land.

Under the Tenure and Improvement of Land (Ireland) Act, 1860, the Landed Estates Court exercises two jurisdictions—1st. That of sanctioning improvements by limited owners, and giving them a charge by way of annuity; and 2nd. That of sanctioning building leases, and leases not within the exact terms of the Act or settlement of the particular estate.

There was no building lease sanctioned in 1866, and there were only 2 in 1865. There was 1 statement as to limited owners' improvements in 1866, but no order charging for such improvements, and 1 similar statement, without order, in 1865.

Record of Title Office.

A return has been obtained for the year 1866, of the proceedings in the Record of Title Office, and it shows that the titles of 115 estates have been recorded, of the value of £295,507; and a certificate issued under the Land Debentures Act, authorizing £3,000 to be raised.

COURT OF PROBATE.

The jurisdiction of the Court of Probate is similar to that of the Court of Probate in England.

Principal Registry.

The following is a summary of the leading heads of business of the Court and Principal Registry in 1866, as compared with 1865 :—

COURT OF PROBATE—PRINCIPAL REGISTRY.	1866.	1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.

* In the Judicial Statistics for 1865, the costs certified in the Landed Estates Court (£42,407), were compared with the costs lodged in Chancery (£97,890), instead of with the costs lodged in the Landed Estates Court (£52,803). My attention having been called to this matter, the explanation I received as to the return of the Chancery costs, has enabled me to set the matter right.

COURT OF PROBATE.

It appears from these summaries that the 1,729 probates and administrations granted in the Principal Registry, when added to the 1,431 granted in the District Registries, give a total of 3,160, or 58 in excess of the number (3,102) in 1865, thus showing a slight increase in the business of the Court. The number of causes in Court (131) shows an increase of 27 on the preceding year, whilst the number of causes tried (52) shows an increase of 10.

The Accountant-General of the Court of Chancery in Ireland is also Accountant-General of the Court of Probate. It appears, however, that there were only 2 accounts open on the 1st October, 1866.

From a return obtained from the Comptroller of Stamp Duties, Inland Revenue Office, Dublin, it appears that the amount of property under which probates and administrations were sworn in Ireland in 1866, was £6,307,880, and the amount of duty received thereon in the year 1866, was £99,212.

ECCLESIASTICAL COURTS.

The Ecclesiastical Courts and Registries Act (Ireland) 1864 (27 & 28 Vic., c. 54), came into operation on the 16th September, 1865. The proceedings in the 12 united Diocesan Courts created by the Act, in the half year ending 29th September, 1866, are compared with the proceedings from 16th September, 1865, till 25th March, 1866, in the following summary :—

ECCLESIASTICAL JURISDICTION IN OTHER THAN MATRIMONIAL CAUSES.	6 Months. 25th March, 29th Sept., 1866.	6¼ Months. 3½ in 1865. 2¾ „ 1866.	Increase.	Decrease.

For other objects,	4	4	–	–
Total,	30	14	16	–
Total Amount of Court Fees,	£197	£132	£65	–

It appears from this table that there was an increase in the number of causes other than matrimonial in the half year ended 29th September, 1866. The number of cases in the half year being 43, giving an average for the 12 united Diocesan Courts of about 4 causes for each Court in the year.

Divorce and Matrimonial Causes.

The change in practice and procedure introduced under the Ecclesiastical Courts Registries Act does not appear to have had any considerable effect on the number of divorce and matrimonial causes, the petitions for divorce in the united Diocesan Courts having been 4 in the six months, ended 29th September, 1866, and the petitions for alimony 3.

HIGH COURT OF ADMIRALTY.

The history of the High Court of Admiralty in Ireland is given in the Report of the Royal Commission which inquired into the Court in 1864.

It appears that "the jurisdiction of the Court of Admiralty had its origin in Ireland as in England, in the authority of the Admiral, of whom the Judge was the deputy." There were distinct Admirals for Ireland as early as 1414.

The present constitution of the High Court of Admiralty in Ireland depends upon an Act of the Irish Parliament, passed in the Session 1783–84 (23 & 24 Geo. III., c. 14), and upon the 8th Article of the Union (39 & 40 Geo. III., c. 67).

HIGH COURT OF ADMIRALTY.

Up to 1829 the jurisdiction of the Court of Admiralty in Ireland and in England in civil and maritime causes was in all essential respects the same; but the reforms introduced in England by various Acts since that time were not extended to Ireland. The bill introduced by your lordship to carry out the recommendations of the Commissioners will establish uniformity of practice and procedure.*

Returns were made by the Registrar and Marshal as to the business of the Court in 1863, and published in the Judicial Statistics for that year. No return was made by the late Registrar of the business in 1864, 1865, or 1866, but the forms of return required from this officer are given. The late Marshal also omitted to make returns, and the returns from the present Marshal being only for the portion of the year which elapsed from his coming into office on the 4th of June, the Table does not admit of any comparison being instituted.

BANKRUPTCY AND INSOLVENCY.

The jurisdiction in Bankruptcy and in Insolvency in Ireland is different from the jurisdiction in England, being regulated by the Irish Bankrupt and Insolvent Act, 1857, passed prior to the Bankruptcy Act of 1861, for England and Wales.

Bankruptcy.

The proceedings in Bankruptcy and in Insolvency are shown by the following summaries :—

PROCEEDINGS IN BANKRUPTCY.	1866.	1865.	Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.

This summary shows a slight increase in the number of petitions for adjudication in Bankruptcy, viz., from 104 in 1865 to 116 in 1866. There were 156 persons declared bankrupt in 1866, the number in 1865 having been 149.

Taxation of costs in bankruptcy and in insolvency.

The Taxation of Costs in Bankruptcy and in Insolvency was as follows :—

TAXATION OF COSTS.	Amount as furnished.	Deductions on Taxation.	Amount as certified.

BANKRUPTCY AND INSOLVENCY.

The Accountant-General of the Court of Chancery in Ireland was appointed Accountant-General in Bankruptcy and in Insolvency under the Irish Bankrupt and Insolvent Act, 1857, Stat. 20 & 21 Vic., c. 60, s. 407. But it appears that in neither 1863, 1864, 1865, or 1866 was any account open, nor were any of the funds of the suitors of the Court standing to his credit.

The following sums were standing to the credit of the Chief Clerk in Insolvency as appears from his return :—

	Cash. £ s. d.	Stock. £ s. d.
To credit of unclaimed dividend account in bankruptcy,	2,271 8 3	13,847 15 0

	Increase. 1,478 17 11½	Decrease. 443 3 4

A table has been compiled from the unpublished returns of the Official Assignees to Parliament under the Irish Bankruptcy and Insolvency Act, 1857, showing the state of the bankruptcies and insolvencies in the charge of each of the Official Assignees in 1866.

SUPREME COURTS OF APPEAL.

Returns have been received from the different Supreme Courts of Appeal.

House of Lords.

There were 2 appeals from the Exchequer Chamber in Ireland presented to the House of Lords in 1866, as compared with 1 in 1865, which is still returned as effective for hearing.

From the Court of Chancery in Ireland only 6 appeals were presented in 1866, and 1 in 1865; 1 decree was reversed, 2 cases were dismissed for want of prosecution, and 6 returned as effective for hearing.

Privy Council, Ireland.

The Privy Council in Ireland has original jurisdiction in some cases under the Church Temporalities Act. It also hears applications for the prohibition of burials in grounds where their continuance is alleged to be injurious. It has appellate jurisdiction in cases of tithe composition, and of improvement or dilapidation of ecclesiastical residences, and against Fishery By-laws. One appeal of the latter class was entered in 1866, and the judgment below reversed.

Chancery Appeal Court.

The proceedings of the Chancery Appeal Court in 1866 and 1865 are shown in the following table :—

APPEALS TO CHANCERY APPEAL COURT.	1866.	1865.	Increase.	Decrease.

Judges in Bankruptcy and Insolvency :
Judge Berwick, ...	1	3	–	2
Judge Lynch, ...	1	2	–	1

Exchequer Chamber.

The comparison shows a marked decrease in the business in this Court. There was, however, an increase in 1865; so that the business in 1866 is about the same as in 1864.

In the Court Exchequer Chamber the number of proceedings in error and notices of appeal in error lodged was 6, viz. :—1 from the Queen's Bench, 4 from the Common Pleas, and 1 from the Exchequer. There were 4 remanets at the end of 1865, which were reduced to 3 remanets in 1866. There were 7 cases disposed of; of these, in 4 cases the decision of the Court below was affirmed, in 2 it was reversed, and 1 case was struck out.

The proceedings in the Exchequer Chamber upon registry appeals under the Irish Parliamentary Voters Act, 13 & 14 Vic., c. 69, were as follow:— SUPREME COURTS OF APPEAL. Registry Appeals.

1866,	3	2	1	–	–
1865,	1	–	1	–	–

In the High Court of Delegates one appeal was heard from the Metropolitan and Consistorial Court of Dublin, and the judgment below was reversed. An Admiralty appeal case entered in 1865 is still pending. High Court of Delegates.

The Courts of Chairmen of Counties in Ireland correspond to the English County Courts, but have a much earlier origin, having been founded so far back as 1796, by an Act of the Irish Parliament, Stat. 36 Geo. III., c. 25. COURTS OF CHAIRMEN OF COUNTIES.

The returns from these Courts are again incomplete.

Thirty Courts (out of the thirty-seven Chairmen and Recorders exercising similar jurisdiction in Ireland) have made returns, and from these the following results appear:—

COURTS OF CHAIRMEN OF COUNTIES AND RECORDERS.	Total of 30 Courts out of 37 Courts.

It appears from these figures that of the Courts that have made returns the highest proportion of ejectments to civil bills was in the Court of Donegal, where the number of ejectments was 229, and of other civil bills, 2,979; and the least was in the Court of Galway town, where the number of ejectments was 5, and of other civil bills, 172.

The proportion of ejectments to other civil bills in 9 Courts in Leinster was 1 in 9
" " " 7 Courts in Munster was 1 in 21
" " " 8 Courts in Ulster was 1 in 19
" " " 6 Courts in Connaught was 1 in 13.

The proportion of cases heard with a jury was very small, the number being only 170, which is ·004 per cent. of the total number (35,474) of judgments, or 47 in 10,000 cases.

In the English County Courts the number of cases in 1865 heard with a jury was 823 of the total number (433,983) of judgments, or 18 cases in every 10,000, a much smaller proportion than in Ireland.

COURTS OF CHAIRMEN OF COUNTIES.

The statistics of the proceedings under the "Tenure and Improvement of Land (Ireland) Act, 1860," indicate results similar to those shown in previous years, viz., the almost total absence of proceedings under the Act.

Decrees and Dismisses.

The following Table shows the number of decrees and dismisses in twenty-nine Courts, in 1866, as compared with the number in the same Courts in 1865 :—

This summary shows a diminution of 4,621 decrees (or 14 per cent.) from 32,897 in 1865 to 28,276 in 1866, and a diminution of 495 dismisses (or 7 per cent.) from 6,957 in 1865 to 6,492 in 1866.

The returns made by the Sheriffs of the proceedings in respect of which fees are paid to them, under the Civil Bill Act, are not complete, eleven returns being wanting.

Fees for returning a Jury,	93

Fees for Certificates and Entries on Decrees,	13,482

The returns both for 1865 and 1866 being defective, it is impossible to institute a comparison as to the proceedings of the Sheriffs. The most remarkable figure in the summary is the small number of replevin cases, there being only 8 in the 29 counties, and counties of cities and towns from which returns were received.

Local Courts.

Local Charter Courts.

The number of local Charter Courts in Ireland is very limited since the abolition of the manor courts in 1859 by Stat. 22 Vic., c. 14. The local Charter Courts still existing are the Lord Mayor's Court in Dublin, and the Courts of Conscience, where these jurisdictions were preserved by the Irish Municipal Corporation Reform Act in 1840. Returns have been received from all of these courts in 1866, and the following summary shows the business in that year compared with the business in 1865.

Local Charter Courts.	Number of Summonses issued.		Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.	Number of Causes heard.		Increase, 1866.	Decrease, 1866.

This table shows a large decrease in the business of most of the local Charter Courts.

Civil Jurisdiction of Petty Sessions.

From the quarterly returns made to the Chief Secretary's Office a compilation has, as in former years, been made of the civil cases heard at the Petty Sessions Courts, and of the number of days in which Petty Sessions were held, and the number of days in which they were not held in consequence of the non-attendance of Magistrates.*

With regard to the civil jurisdiction of Petty Sessions Courts, it appears that in 545 courts out of 604, there were 91,560 cases, and if 10 per cent. be added for courts from which returns have not been received, it may be estimated that 100,000 civil cases were disposed of.

As the number of days on which Courts of Petty Sessions were held was 13,175, the 91,560 cases give an average of 7 cases a day for each court. These courts have, however, extensive criminal business besides.

The returns further indicate the number of days on which Petty Sessions were not held in consequence of the non-attendance of Magistrates. This number is returned as 1,206, as compared with 13,175 days on which Petty Sessions Courts were held, which gives a proportion of 8·3 per cent.; but this proportion is differently distributed in different counties in Ireland, varying from ·8 per cent. in Limerick Police Court, to 19 per cent. in Leitrim.

Conclusion.

The following is a summary of some of the principal results of the Irish Judicial Statistics for 1866:—

1. In the Consolidated Writ and Seal Office for the three Superior Courts of Common Law the number of writs issued was 16,136 in 1866, being 358 more than the number (15,778) in 1865, and the number of writs of execution was 4,613 in 1866, being 25 more than the number (4,588) in 1865. These figures indicate a slight increase in the pressure for debt.

2. The entire amount recovered on Judgments of different classes in 1866 was £925,279, being £46,276 more than the amount (£879,003) recovered in 1865.

3. There was a slight increase in the amount of business before the full Court in the three Superior Courts of Common Law.

4. There was an increase in the number of special rules on the Crown side of the Court of Queen's Bench, an increase in writs of Habeas Corpus, and a considerable decrease in the number of writs of Mandamus.

5. The reforms introduced in 1843, in the practice of the Crown side of the Court of Queen's Bench in England, have not yet been extended to Ireland.

6. There was an increase in the number of claims for malicious injuries in the County and City of Dublin from 3 in 1865 to 9 in 1866.

7. The number of bills of sale registered was 359, being 12 more than the number

(347) in 1865, and the acknowledgments by married women filed were 537, being 84 more than the number (453) in 1865.

8. There was an increase of 41 in the number of revenue cases, and a decrease of 38 in the number of legacy and succession duty cases.

9. In the Judgments Office there was a decrease of 3,611 in the number of judgments re-registered, arising from the circumstance that the year 1865 was one of the quinquennial periods for the registration of judgments in existence before 1850. The number re-registered in that year indicates the extent to which judgments are still a security for money in Ireland.

10. The number of causes tried at Nisi Prius in Dublin and on Circuit was 930 and the amount recovered by verdict £66,406.

11. The amount of Grand Jury Cess imposed in 1866 by the presentments fiated by the Judges on circuit and by the Court of Queen's Bench in Dublin amounted to £999,880, being £10,647 less than the amount of Grand Jury Cess (£1,010,527) imposed in 1865.

12. In the Court of Chancery the number of proceedings before the Lord Chancellor and Master of the Rolls and of cause petitions, before the Masters in Chancery, was 1,863, being a decrease of 316, or 15 per cent. on the number (2,179) of the proceedings in 1865.

13. The number of minors under the protection of the Court increased from 819 in 1865, to 922 in 1866.

14. In the Crown and Hanaper Office there was a considerable decrease in business from 1,938 Official Acts in 1865, to 1,580 in 1866.

15. The number of accounts other than in minor and lunacy matters was 410, being a decrease of 35 on the number in 1865. A large quantity of landed property appears to be still under the management of the Court of Chancery, the receipts on the accounts filed amounting to £1,046,868, being an increase of £200,671 on the receipts in 1865. The amount of Chancery costs in 1866 was £129,718, being an increase of £31,828 on the amount in 1865.

16. There was only one company being wound up in Chancery under the Winding-up Act, viz., the Tipperary Bank, and in this case there is £15,720 available for distribution. The usual proceeding for winding-up companies in Ireland is in the Court of Bankruptcy.

17. The number of lunatics under the care of the Court of Chancery in 1866 was 143, being an increase of 6 on the preceding year; and the incomes of 64 of these lunatics, indicated by the 64 accounts passed before the Masters, amounted to £61,212 in the year.

18. The extended jurisdiction for the care of the property of lunatics, established in England by the Lunacy Regulation Acts of 1853 and 1862, has not yet been extended to Ireland.

19. In the Landed Estates Court the number of sales was 281, and the purchase-money amounted to £1,258,585, showing a considerable increase on the amount realized in the preceding year.

20. In the Landed Estates Court in 1866 there were no building leases sanctioned, and no order charging for a limited owner's improvements, under the Tenure and Improvement of Land (Ireland) Act, 1860. There was only one statement as to such improvements presented.

21. In the Record of Title Office, under the recent Act, 115 estates were recorded, of the value of £295,507.

22. Under the Land Debenture Act one certificate was issued, authorizing £3,000 to be raised.

23. In the Court of Probate the total number of probates and administrations granted in 1866 in all the Registries was 3,160, showing an increase of 58 on the number granted in the preceding year.

CONCLUSION.

24. In the Ecclesiastical Courts there has been an increase in the number of causes other than matrimonial in the half year ended 29th September, 1866, the number of causes being 43, giving an average for the 12 united Diocesan Courts of about 4 causes for each Court in the year.

25. The changes in practice and procedure in the Ecclesiastical Courts do not appear to have had much effect on the divorce and matrimonial causes, there having been 4 petitions for divorce in the six months, and 3 petitions for alimony.

26. A return has been received from the present Marshal of the High Court of Admiralty, but only for the portion of the year subsequent to his appointment.

27. In Bankruptcy there was an increase in the number of petitions for adjudication from 104, in 1865, to 116, in 1866; and there were 156 persons declared bankrupt in 1866, the number in 1865 being 149.

28. With respect to the Supreme Courts of Appeal, there were only 2 appeals presented to the House of Lords from the Exchequer Chamber in Ireland, and 6 from the Court of Chancery; there were 28 appeals to the Chancery Appeal Court, being a decrease of 24 on the number in 1864; in the Court of Exchequer Chamber there were only 4 memoranda of error, and 2 notices of appeal, and 3 registry appeals; and in the High Court of Delegates there was 1 appeal lodged from the High Court of Admiralty.

29. In the Courts of Chairmen of Counties and Recorders, there was a diminution in the number of decrees in 1866 as compared with 1865 (in the 29 courts which have made returns in both years) of 4,621 (or 14 per cent.), viz., from 32,897 in 1865, to 28,276 in 1866.

30. There was a large decrease in the business of the Lord Mayor's Court in Dublin, and in the Local Courts of Conscience.

31. The returns of the Civil cases at Petty Sessions show 91,560 cases in 545 out of 610 courts. Adding 10 per cent. for courts from which no returns were received, it may be estimated that 100,000 civil cases were disposed of at Petty Sessions in 1866.
